

ONE OF THE WEAPONS OF THE GUNBOAT BUCCANEER, A CRAFT THAT HAS SERVED WITH HONOR IN PEACE AND WAR.

THE United States gunboat Buccaneer and before there was any thought of coming into the harbor yesterday and immediately proceeded to the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Government's possession she was ready to hang on the steps of a trolley car, and the steam right out and do her part of the fighting.

She carried twenty marines, who were likewise armed and outfitted by the donor. The Buccaneer was an object of great interest to the sightseers at the Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday.

Before she was turned over to the navy in 1878. He was chief of the expedition sent to Africa to observe a total eclipse of the sun six years ago.

the ice companies, and must be supplied with all they require. The hot weather has doubled and tripled their demands, and as it is nearing the close of the season the supply is somewhat limited.

SUICIDES BRED BY THE HEAT PLAGUE.

Men and Women Crazy by Their Sufferings Beyond the Point of Endurance.

Hot weather breeds tragedies. Yesterday brought forth its full quota of happenings of a tragic nature.

Charles Brandt, of Newark, was driven insane by the heat on Sunday night. He boarded with his sister at No. 326 Plane street, and she failed to report his deplorable condition to the police.

The second member of the police force of the Borough of Brooklyn to succumb to the plague of heat died yesterday. His name was Maurice Kelleher and he was attached to the German avenue station.

Neighbors heard the heavy crying about midnight, and discerning no sound of the voice of the mother, proceeded to investigate. They found that Mrs. Lohkoi had swallowed carbolic acid.

Hard work at the hospital saved the woman's life, but she was held a prisoner. Her husband said that she had complained of the heat, and threatened to kill herself to get away from it.

Thomas O'Hanlon, a bartender at No. 227 Albany street, died yesterday while serving customers with cooling drinks yesterday. He fell over unconscious, a victim of the heat.

CROWDS TRAVEL ALL NIGHT LONG.

Never Has There Been Such a Rush to Get Out of the City on Any Labor Day.

The exodus from the city yesterday of those who wished to avoid the heat and gain pleasure at the same time was so great that the first consideration was almost entirely smothered in the mob and the second was denied.

FIFTY LADIES GO INTO "RETREAT."

Fifty ladies from Harlem went into "retreat" yesterday at the St. Regis Hotel. One hundred and Fortieth street and Hudson River. They are to remain during the week in meditation and prayer under the guidance of the Rev. Father O'Grady.

REGULARS ORDERED TO BE SENT FROM CAMP TO ARMY POSTS.

Acting on the Journal's Appeal, the War Department Orders the Troops at Montauk Transferred to Their Barracks Without Delay.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Orders were issued to-day removing regular troops from Montauk Point to barracks as follows:

The Third Cavalry to Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont; the Third Infantry, to Fort Snelling, Minnesota; the Fourth Infantry, to Fort Sheridan, Illinois; the Ninth Infantry, to Madison Barracks, New York; the Thirtieth Infantry, to Forts Porter, Columbus and Niagara, New York; the Seventeenth Infantry, to Columbus Barracks, Ohio; the Twentieth Infantry, to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; the Twenty-first Infantry, to Plattsburg Barracks, New York.

It is decided to keep the artillery at Montauk Point. The orders transferring the troops was made largely in response to the demand of the Journal that they be transferred to their proper stations to relieve the situation at Montauk Point.

The decision reached as to the artillery, it is stated officially at the Adjutant-General's office, is made because no arrangements have been made for the horses of these men at the places to which they are to be moved.

It is not expected that there will be much delay, however, in getting the artillery off the island.

The War Department officials are now making the plea that Montauk Point was not intended for a camp, but merely as a temporary resting place for soldiers.

The Sixth Cavalry, now at Montauk Point, will not be affected by the general order issued to-day. It was found necessary to leave the Sixth Cavalry there for a time, as most of their quarters at Fort Myer, Va., are temporarily in use as a hospital for the treatment of the sick volunteer troops at Camp Alger.

The Eighth Ohio Regiment will leave Camp Wikoff this morning. The regiment has 1,061 men in camp, 232 of whom are sick. Part of the Third Texas will leave tomorrow, and the First Illinois, Thursday.

The convalescents from the transport Roumania has over taxed the detention hospital, and two men died yesterday after being sent to make room for those coming in. The dead men are Dorjan Brown, of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, a typhoid patient, and Albert Beckworth, of the Thirty-third Infantry.

There are 821 sick in the detention camp and beds for only 596.

Those who died in the hospital yesterday were Joseph G. Braun, Twenty-first Infantry; Louis Hitzel, Second Infantry; John Browner, Tenth Infantry; Bert Brown, Seventeenth Infantry; Dennis Dixon, Ninth Cavalry; Samuel Dumas, Ninth Cavalry; George Gaskell, First District of Columbia; Samuel Carey, Second Infantry; Frank J. Eckley, Eighth Infantry.

Mr. Gladstone's will was written by himself in an ordinary memorandum book. It is a document of about 2,000 words, and is a remarkable specimen of penmanship.

Commending myself to the infinite mercies of God in the incarnate Son as my only and sufficient hope, I leave the particular of my burial to my executors, specifying only that they be very simple and private, unless there be conclusive reasons to the contrary.

His executors are appointed executors. To his grandson William, is bequeathed as heir-at-law, all patents of Crown offices held by the testator and books and prints presented to him by the Queen, letters from the Queen, etc.

REGULARS ORDERED TO BE SENT FROM CAMP TO ARMY POSTS.

Acting on the Journal's Appeal, the War Department Orders the Troops at Montauk Transferred to Their Barracks Without Delay.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Orders were issued to-day removing regular troops from Montauk Point to barracks as follows:

The Third Cavalry to Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont; the Third Infantry, to Fort Snelling, Minnesota; the Fourth Infantry, to Fort Sheridan, Illinois; the Ninth Infantry, to Madison Barracks, New York; the Thirtieth Infantry, to Forts Porter, Columbus and Niagara, New York; the Seventeenth Infantry, to Columbus Barracks, Ohio; the Twentieth Infantry, to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; the Twenty-first Infantry, to Plattsburg Barracks, New York.

It is decided to keep the artillery at Montauk Point. The orders transferring the troops was made largely in response to the demand of the Journal that they be transferred to their proper stations to relieve the situation at Montauk Point.

The decision reached as to the artillery, it is stated officially at the Adjutant-General's office, is made because no arrangements have been made for the horses of these men at the places to which they are to be moved.

It is not expected that there will be much delay, however, in getting the artillery off the island.

The War Department officials are now making the plea that Montauk Point was not intended for a camp, but merely as a temporary resting place for soldiers.

The Sixth Cavalry, now at Montauk Point, will not be affected by the general order issued to-day. It was found necessary to leave the Sixth Cavalry there for a time, as most of their quarters at Fort Myer, Va., are temporarily in use as a hospital for the treatment of the sick volunteer troops at Camp Alger.

The Eighth Ohio Regiment will leave Camp Wikoff this morning. The regiment has 1,061 men in camp, 232 of whom are sick. Part of the Third Texas will leave tomorrow, and the First Illinois, Thursday.

The convalescents from the transport Roumania has over taxed the detention hospital, and two men died yesterday after being sent to make room for those coming in. The dead men are Dorjan Brown, of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, a typhoid patient, and Albert Beckworth, of the Thirty-third Infantry.

There are 821 sick in the detention camp and beds for only 596.

Those who died in the hospital yesterday were Joseph G. Braun, Twenty-first Infantry; Louis Hitzel, Second Infantry; John Browner, Tenth Infantry; Bert Brown, Seventeenth Infantry; Dennis Dixon, Ninth Cavalry; Samuel Dumas, Ninth Cavalry; George Gaskell, First District of Columbia; Samuel Carey, Second Infantry; Frank J. Eckley, Eighth Infantry.

Mr. Gladstone's will was written by himself in an ordinary memorandum book. It is a document of about 2,000 words, and is a remarkable specimen of penmanship.

Commending myself to the infinite mercies of God in the incarnate Son as my only and sufficient hope, I leave the particular of my burial to my executors, specifying only that they be very simple and private, unless there be conclusive reasons to the contrary.

His executors are appointed executors. To his grandson William, is bequeathed as heir-at-law, all patents of Crown offices held by the testator and books and prints presented to him by the Queen, letters from the Queen, etc.

REGULARS ORDERED TO BE SENT FROM CAMP TO ARMY POSTS.

Acting on the Journal's Appeal, the War Department Orders the Troops at Montauk Transferred to Their Barracks Without Delay.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Orders were issued to-day removing regular troops from Montauk Point to barracks as follows:

The Third Cavalry to Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont; the Third Infantry, to Fort Snelling, Minnesota; the Fourth Infantry, to Fort Sheridan, Illinois; the Ninth Infantry, to Madison Barracks, New York; the Thirtieth Infantry, to Forts Porter, Columbus and Niagara, New York; the Seventeenth Infantry, to Columbus Barracks, Ohio; the Twentieth Infantry, to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; the Twenty-first Infantry, to Plattsburg Barracks, New York.

It is decided to keep the artillery at Montauk Point. The orders transferring the troops was made largely in response to the demand of the Journal that they be transferred to their proper stations to relieve the situation at Montauk Point.

The decision reached as to the artillery, it is stated officially at the Adjutant-General's office, is made because no arrangements have been made for the horses of these men at the places to which they are to be moved.

It is not expected that there will be much delay, however, in getting the artillery off the island.

The War Department officials are now making the plea that Montauk Point was not intended for a camp, but merely as a temporary resting place for soldiers.

The Sixth Cavalry, now at Montauk Point, will not be affected by the general order issued to-day. It was found necessary to leave the Sixth Cavalry there for a time, as most of their quarters at Fort Myer, Va., are temporarily in use as a hospital for the treatment of the sick volunteer troops at Camp Alger.

The Eighth Ohio Regiment will leave Camp Wikoff this morning. The regiment has 1,061 men in camp, 232 of whom are sick. Part of the Third Texas will leave tomorrow, and the First Illinois, Thursday.

The convalescents from the transport Roumania has over taxed the detention hospital, and two men died yesterday after being sent to make room for those coming in. The dead men are Dorjan Brown, of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, a typhoid patient, and Albert Beckworth, of the Thirty-third Infantry.

There are 821 sick in the detention camp and beds for only 596.

Those who died in the hospital yesterday were Joseph G. Braun, Twenty-first Infantry; Louis Hitzel, Second Infantry; John Browner, Tenth Infantry; Bert Brown, Seventeenth Infantry; Dennis Dixon, Ninth Cavalry; Samuel Dumas, Ninth Cavalry; George Gaskell, First District of Columbia; Samuel Carey, Second Infantry; Frank J. Eckley, Eighth Infantry.

Mr. Gladstone's will was written by himself in an ordinary memorandum book. It is a document of about 2,000 words, and is a remarkable specimen of penmanship.

Commending myself to the infinite mercies of God in the incarnate Son as my only and sufficient hope, I leave the particular of my burial to my executors, specifying only that they be very simple and private, unless there be conclusive reasons to the contrary.

His executors are appointed executors. To his grandson William, is bequeathed as heir-at-law, all patents of Crown offices held by the testator and books and prints presented to him by the Queen, letters from the Queen, etc.

LOSS OF WHALERS IS CONFIRMED.

Captain Goodall Brings the News of the Disaster to Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 5.—Captain Edwin Goodall, of San Francisco, arrived to-day from Juneau with information confirming the report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

The report that the Pacific Steam Whaling company's Arctic fleet of eight vessels was destroyed in the summer.

STERNBERG SAYS MONTAUK'S FINE.

Surgeon-General Professes to Be Pleased with Camp's Condition.

Camp Wikoff, Montauk Point, L. I., Sept. 5.—Surgeon-General Sternberg bobbed into Camp unexpectedly this morning from Washington, and made so quickly for General Wheeler's quarters that no one recognized him.

"I am greatly pleased at the condition of Camp Wikoff to-day," said General Sternberg later, in General Wheeler's tent.

"I am very pleased that so much has been done in five weeks. I have seen several things that needed remedying, and I made suggestions thereto that I have no doubt will be carried out. No, I won't say what they are. They are comparatively unimportant."

"I am going back to-morrow afternoon to Washington to make a verbal report to Secretary Alger. Dr. Smart started analyzing the water of the camp to-day and I expect him to go back with me."

"Oh, yes, there is danger of a typhoid epidemic here, same as anywhere else. But here we have room enough to shift every company about and that alone would check any camp disease outbreak. A move of a quarter of a mile is plenty far enough from any infected spot, and here we can move a couple of miles necessary. I really believe this to be the best site for a camp along the whole Atlantic coast, and I expect it to be made into a permanent barracks. I am not here on an ordered tour of inspection by the way. I have just come up to see things for myself as head of the medical corps. There is plenty of medicine, physicians, nurses and accommodation here now."

"And plenty of sick," whispered one of his ambulance men.

"Yes, I know that, too," said the Surgeon-General.

Sympathy

And good medicine are what nervous people need. The milk of human kindness furnishes the former and a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla the latter.

The utter loneliness of their condition and the gratitude nervous people feel to Hood's Sarsaparilla are both pathetically expressed by a poor, thankful woman who says: "Hood's Sarsaparilla is my only friend."

This great medicine makes the blood rich and pure and affords to the nerves the nourishment and support necessary to make them strong.

That is why Hood's Sarsaparilla gives sweet, refreshing sleep and overcomes the most distressing cases of nervous prostration.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is America's Greatest Medicine. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic. Price 25c.

TRUSSES. I have had 27 years of practical experience in manufacturing trusses, and offer you with my patented trusses to hold any rupture under the severest strain and enable you to enjoy real solid comfort.

