

ASKS DAMAGES FOR NO HATS IN CHURCH HER COMPLEXION. FOR JERSEY WOMEN

It Was a Hand-Made One, You Know, and She Brought It from Paris.

MINERAL WATER HAVOC FAVOR SOFT SHIRTS, Chemicals in a Saratoga Spring Turned Her Face a Deep, Sooty Black. Believe Both Sexes Should Dress Comfortably and Attend Services.

A cracked and otherwise defaced complexion is likely to be the basis of a suit for damages at the next term of the Albany Supreme Court. The plaintiff in the case is a young woman not unknown in New York City, and the complexion in question has frequently been exhibited at all the nearby watering places.

The trouble with the lady's complexion was that it was of hand-made origin. Ordinarily its owner did not possess a marked and lively complexion, and it was from Paris during the Spring of '98 her friends were somewhat amazed to descry the bloom of youth that had replaced her former sallow features.

The truth of the matter was that while the young woman was a visitor in Paris she attended the services of a dandyologist, who, by devices known to his like, tinted and toned the lady's face and then laid over his handiwork a preservative enamel. This was warranted waterproof, and with occasional retouching was warranted to last a year.

After the young woman had amazed the natives of her home place she and her mother went to Saratoga, where they took rooms at one of the big hotels near the springs.

Now, the proprietor of this hotel had just bored an artesian well on his premises, and was extremely proud of the fact that his guests could get an abundance of fresh, cool spring water.

But, needless for himself, the proprietor of hotel and artesian well failed to obtain professional opinion upon the action of mineral water when applied to a hand-made countenance. As a matter of fact, neither the lady, so one morning the guests were overwhelmed by shrieks from the young woman's apartments.

When the startled attendants tried to push their way into the lady's apartments she barricaded the door and screamed for her mother. That lady came upstairs in the night, and at the instant she saw her daughter her shrieks added to the general confusion.

It appears that the lady for the first time during her stay at the hotel had attempted to scour her enamel with the new artesian water. A curious sensation moved her to look in the glass in the midst of this abolition, when to her horror she found that her face had turned a dusky, settled black.

Somehow, you know, the chemicals in the well water, instead of being beneficial in the enamel with surprising, unlooked for results.

The hotel physician was hastily summoned. He did his best to conceal his feelings, but it was a hard struggle.

"Madame," said he, "time is the great restorer, and you must be patient." In other words, the lady would have to wait until her enamel wore off. She insisted, however, that he remove it, whereupon he informed her that no chemical could remove it without removing her skin as well.

So in the middle of the night, the lady and mother, the daughter heavily veiled, fitted homeward in the dark, and for the remainder of the season she remained secluded in the privacy of her home.

After the lapse of six weeks she emerged once more, when her friends were pleased to behold her with cheeks as sallow and peaked as of old.

Hence the suit in Albany.

Local Church News.

Bishop Wierzer, assisted by a number of high Catholic prelates, will lay the cornerstone of the Newark Cathedral to-day. The closing exercises of St. Peter's Girls' School will be held at 10 o'clock at the Barclay street on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 21 and 22.

The Augustinian Fathers will shortly take possession of their new monastery near Stapleton, S. I.

Ministers Disagree Over the Subject of Uncovered Heads.

Believe Both Sexes Should Dress Comfortably and Attend Services.

Ever since it was reported that the Rev. J. C. Mayhew, pastor of the Grace M. E. Church, Jersey City, had on Sunday asked the women members of his congregation to remove their hats in future when attending church the discussion has waxed fast and furious among his flock and other clergymen as to whether or not Dr. Mayhew was right in making such request.

Dr. Mayhew's idea was that the wearing of high headgear by the women folks sent off the view of the pastor from those who occupied seats in the rear of the church. The anti-hat party of the Grace Church, however, is of the opinion that the wearing of hats is more than likely that at each service tomorrow there will be but few women worshippers who will wear their hats.

While many other ministers and Pastor Mayhew's flock favor his idea, however, there are many women folks who attend other churches who assert that in wearing their daily creations of the milliners' art in church they are but complying with one of the provisions of the Bible, which says that women must not worship with their heads uncovered.

In this they are backed up by the Rev. James Clayton Mitchell, rector of Trinity Church, Hoboken, who says the provision is one of St. Paul's utterances and is found in I. Corinthians x., 15, the passage reads:

"Every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered dishonoureth her head, which is the church, of which she is the body, which is saved by the word, which she hath received."

"From the very beginning," said Rector Mitchell, "it has been the custom for women to have a head covering in church. It has been a universal Christian custom, based on the saying of St. Paul, but it doesn't say, however, that the women should wear high hats."

Rev. Robert M. Aylesworth, pastor of Stimpson M. E. Church, Jersey City, who heartily indorses Pastor Mayhew's order about the women removing their hats, and who will at the services to-morrow request the women of his congregation to remove their hats, says a step further than Dr. Mayhew, for he says:

"I believe in religion with comfort, and want the members of my congregation and strangers to come to church as though they were going to their homes; let the ladies, however, who insist on wearing their hats, and then they can appear in the church in the most comfortable way. Yes, I say, let hats come off and let men and women dress for comfort."

The Rev. Dr. Mitchell, when asked his views on the wearing of negligé blouses by the men at church, said:

"I think the more comfortable men make themselves the more attention they will pay to the service. If the custom becomes general I think the men would be more apt to come to church, especially during the very warm weather."

"For instance, if a wife insists upon her husband wearing a stiff starched shirt and a high collar you can hardly blame him for not wanting to go to church. The easier and more comfortable you make yourself in your clothing the more able you will be to draw your thoughts away from the world and concentrate them on the services."

Rev. Arthur Newton Thompson, D. D., pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Hoboken, N. J., also expressed himself in favor of Pastor Mayhew's suggestion.

Dr. Daniel F. Warren, rector of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal Church, however, does not see much merit in the proposed innovation. He thinks it is in line with many of the worldly ideas which have crept into the Church in recent years.

In the Roman Catholic Church, there is no regulation governing the matter in which women must appear as to head covering. They may or may not go bareheaded.

Bishop Tikon, of the Alentian Islands and Alaska, who is at present in New York, is making a visitation in the city and is staying in the Russian priest, the Rev. Alex. Dr. Katorizki. He will be in the city this summer as far as Sitka and other lower Alaskan points.

DEWEY MONUMENT ON THE PALISADES.

New Jersey People Start a Fund to Honor the Hero of Manila.

To build a monument to Admiral Dewey on the Palisades of the Hudson and to thus both nobly honor the hero of Manila and preserve the Palisades from destruction is the plan advocated by the citizens of that part of New Jersey that approaches the Hudson.

At a mass meeting at Union Hill the plan was enthusiastically indorsed, and the people believe that it will only be necessary to announce the project to secure widespread public support.

It is pointed out that no more fitting place could possibly be chosen for a Dewey monument than at a spot facing the Grant Monument.

There is no more beautiful or grander river than the Hudson in the world, and with the Grant Monument on one side and the Dewey Monument on the other the nation would gloriously honor its greatest military and naval heroes.

At the mass meeting it was decided that the monument should be in every sense a national tribute, and that an opportunity should be given for every man, woman and child living under the American flag to contribute something, whether much or little, to the monument.

Not only will every one from Maine to California be asked to subscribe, but those in Alaska, in Cuba, in Porto Rico, in Hawaii and, of course, in the Philippines will be invited to join in the carrying out of the scheme.

It is planned to have a magnificent monument, and therefore large subscriptions will be welcomed as well as small. But small ones, even if not more than a single penny, will also be welcomed, as to give every one an opportunity to contribute.

With the scheme for the Dewey monument there goes a plan to preserve the Palisades from further destruction. A resort to the State Legislature having failed in its object, the New Jersey people now propose a huge popular subscription to purchase outright the entire face of the Palisades from Edgewater to Nyack, a distance of twelve miles.

HORSE AND CARRIAGE TRADE NOTES.

It seems remarkable that with the extreme heat of the past week good business is reported in the horse and carriage trade, and more high-priced horses and fancy carriages were sold than usual.

The Studebaker Bros' Manufacturing Co., corner of Broadway and Prince street, have given special attention this season to the revival of basket work in carriages. Handsome vehicles are exhibited. In the department set aside for business wagons, trucks, sprinklers, etc., many new improvements are shown. Much attention is given this department.

The Elizabeth Wagon Works, No. 37 Hudson street, have been doing considerable business of late. Manager Deering is always on hand.

H. Meise, No. 141 East Twenty-fourth street, has a steady demand for work of every description, from the stylish light business horse to the heavy draught animal, and never experiences any difficulty in supplying the wants of his customers.

George D. King & Son, Colorado Stables, No. 225 West Fifty-eighth street, report a good week's business. Among the best sales made was a team to a city banker for $2,000 and two teams to out-of-town parties for $1,800 and $1,000 respectively.

Mr. King has his stalls filled with a clicking good lot of horses; there is not a sick or off one in the bunch.

J. N. Wilson, of No. 1022 Broadway, is one of the busiest dealers in the city. He carries a large stock of high-class carriage horses and has a continual run of inquiries.

Thomas F. Devine & Co., West End street, are in receipt of three carloads of extra good work and business horses, and find it hard to keep the supply up to the demand.

At the warehouses of the Mutual Wagon Company, Nos. 585 and 587 Hudson street, business is good enough to suit any one. Mr. Hoerle never finds it hard to suit his customers. The stock is an extensive that covers every variety in the market. The latest and best seller is the combination business and pleasure wagon, specially constructed for country use.

Center Wheel's Sons, No. 405 West Thirty-sixth street, make a specialty of hand-made business wagons, which are the favorite of old customers, are absolutely standard of all customers, are 57 West Edward Callanan's Son, No. 57 West Forty-fourth street, keeps pretty busy. In the warehouse Summer carriages and traps are plentifully displayed. Fall and Winter carriages are arriving at his factory for repairs.

The Fashion Coach Horse Company, No. 147 West Fifty-fifth street, have some of the finest coach horses of the country in their stalls, and there is to be found both style and quality to pick from. Manager Leiby reports good business, and is thoroughly satisfied with the character and condition of his carefully selected stock.

C. C. Schillwaeher, Park avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street, has been getting his share of the improved trade in carriages, wagons, etc. In addition to a large warehouse filled with seasonable carriages and traps, Mr. Schillwaeher makes a specialty of pneumatic road wagons.

Charles F. Bates, West End avenue and Seventeenth street, reports very good business. The range of high class stock in his stables is such that every taste can be gratified.

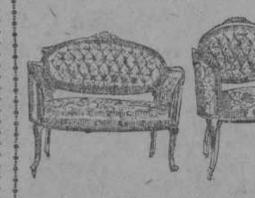

On Monday evening, June 19, the First Tipton Company will sell by electric light fifty-eight pairings consigned by Mr. W. S. Barnes, Mrs. Byron McCallahan, Mrs. Elizabeth, Mr. F. D. Knight and Messrs. Barbes and Leigh. Among the sires represented are Bramble, Kingston, Prince of Monaco, Geo. Henry of Swarzo, Ben Strone, etc.

The Star Express Company, No. 408 East Sixty-eighth street, reports very successful in disposing of their surplus wagons. They still have a few left.
