

ELECTION BETTING IS MORE ACTIVE.

M'Kinley Men Say the Odds Will Probably Reach 5 to 1. Bookmakers Ready to Lay Bets in Large Sums on the Canton Man.

"Billy" Edwards Has Many Commissions to Wager on the Election Result. QUEER CAPITAL OF A BETTOR. Offers to Put Up Paintings, Which He Values at $4,000, Against Sums of Money, with the Odds on McKinley.

Betting on the result of the election is expected to show more activity to-day, and enthusiastic McKinley men say that the odds will probably reach 5 to 1. That is the belief among the bookmakers, too, and Benjamin Q. Snow has already announced that he will lay $65,000 against $15,000 that the Cantonese "wins in a canter."

George Wheelock bet $1,000 to $300 that John McVeigh would be elected, and placed another wager of $100 even that McKinley will carry Illinois by 60,000. He also laid $500 even that twelve States that Bryan would carry could not be named.

He bet with George A. Clark on Friday $10,000 to $7,000 that McKinley would carry Indiana and the same amount on the result in Michigan. Now he is anxious to duplicate each of these bets. Mark A. Mayer has placed in Portland, Ore., $750 against $250 on McKinley, general result. He is the brother-in-law of Sal Hirsch, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and Minister to Turkey under Harrison. Mr. Mayer says he has received word that Oregon is for McKinley without the shadow of a doubt. He bet Charles Heilmann, the bookmaker, $1,500 to $500 on the general result; a Cincinnati man $100 even that McKinley would have 90,000 plurality or over in Ohio, and $300 to $100 with George Lerdereff on the general result.

Whitford Joy bet Charles D. Gallery, of Pittsburg, $500 even that New York State would give McKinley a large plurality than Pennsylvania. "Billy" Edwards laid $250 to $150 with "Toke" Wall that Bryan would not carry twenty States, and "Wit" Schilleit bet $250 even that the Democratic standard-bearer would not get even eighteen States. R. Mook wagered $100 even with N. Lawrence that New York would give McKinley 100,000 plurality. "Billy" Edwards has had a great many unusual commissions, but this one offered him is probably the most novel.

THE SULLIVANS AND ITALIANS MEET

Both on Parade, and Both Shout That the Other's in the Soup Until the Police Had to Take a Hand to Preserve the East Side's Peace.

The Timothy D. Sullivans went parading on the East Side on Saturday night. A number of Italian benevolent societies assembled in honor of Prince Luigi, also went parading on the East Side. The Timothy D. Sullivans carried uneasy-looking torches and banners whose inscriptions would have driven Lindsay Murray to suicide. The Italians carried pretty Japanese lanterns and richly embroidered flags. They ran across each other on Second avenue. "Hooray for Timothy D. Sullivan!" cried one parade. "Viva Luigi! Viva Palmieri! Viva Garibaldi! Viva-a-a!" cried the others. "Who's in the soup?" yelled the Sullivans, and without hesitation answered their own question: "Palmieri!" "Who gotta d' soup?" roared an enthusiastic Italian, and all the benevolent societies answered heartily, "Timma de Sullivan!" Then one of the Japanese lanterns caught fire, and everybody began to shout. It looked as if there would be a riot, but the arrival of the police put an end to the noise. The Sullivans wended their way through every street and avenue in the district, and all the women came out to see them. They paraded until all the oil in their torches was consumed. Then they went up and down the Bowery until midnight, when their permit to parade expired. The Italians, on their way to Madison Square Concert Hall, met one political parade after another, but a policeman had been placed at their head, and their cheering was confined to international personages.

IRISH TO FOLLOW BRYAN. The California Orator Will Try to Win Converts Back to Gold. Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 1.—When Mr. Bryan leaves Lincoln to-morrow morning for his flying trip through his own State he will be followed at no great distance by John P. Irish, of California, who will strive to undo whatever Mr. Bryan accomplishes. This programme was decided upon by the National Democrats of Nebraska when Chairman Mark Hanna vetoed the proposition that ex-Congressman William E. Mason should perform that duty for the Republicans in Illinois. It is improbable that Mr. Irish will follow Mr. Bryan throughout the entire day, but arrangements for his reception have been made in most of the larger towns to be visited.

OLD DEVICE. Rapid and vigorous conversation is by no means a new or untried device for concealing lack of address in the upper lip.

WANT A TRANSCONTINENTAL CANAL. The Central Labor Union yesterday approved of a plan for a great transcontinental canal from east to west of North America. The plan was presented for its approval at a previous meeting by Delegate Wilkes, of the International Association of Machinists, who was granted the privilege of the floor. Mr. Wilkes submitted maps and drawings of the plan to the Central Labor Union. He said it would give permanent employment to many thousands of people. The plan was referred for investigation to Delegate Warner, of the Machinists' Union, who made his report yesterday. It was the effect that the plan was practicable, and would be of great benefit to the working classes.

CHURCH ALWAYS ON THE RICH MAN'S SIDE.

The Rev. Henry Frank Blames Ministers Who Attack Bryan. Holds They Have Even Advocated Oppression of the Poor. Cites Their Present Support of the Trusts as Proof That They Truckle to Wealth.

AUDIENCE CHEERS THE JOURNAL. Big Audience in Murray Hill Lyceum Loudly Applauded the Eloquent Preacher's Denunciation of the Injustice Done Silver's Champions.

It was a very enthusiastic audience that attended last night at Murray Hill Lyceum, where the Rev. Henry Frank, by request, undertook to answer the clergy who had preached against Bryan, in an address under the auspices of the Bryan Independent League, on the subject of "Drifting Toward Monarchy." The large hall was crowded and many were unable to gain admission. The boxes were occupied by ladies and there was a large number of ladies in the body of the house. In the course of his address Mr. Frank said the present campaign is probably the most important that voters had been called upon to decide.

"The money question in this campaign has almost ceased to be an issue," he said, "the probable loss of our national liberties. For the first time in our history, the entire nation is aroused to a keen sense of its danger. When we recall that all the invidious elements are now at play in our civilization which have in all ages gradually eaten away the liberties of a people the justification of the present popular alarm is apparent. "First of all, is the combination of wealth so centered as to play directly upon the toiler, depriving him of his independence and threatening his opportunity of maintaining his livelihood. The danger of the trust and combine lies not so much in its accumulation of wealth as in its authority over the toiler, with the clear possibility of reducing him, not to the condition of the wage slave, which he has already become, but of compelling him to surrender his citizenship, or of using his franchise, if at all, for the advantage and aggrandizement of his employer. "As the ministers have made themselves peculiarly obnoxious and prominent in this campaign, it is but just that we study their attitude with reference to human progress in the ages past. At the present moment their attitude and sympathies are made unequivocally clear. While one of them who ministers to the wealthy defends those inhuman and ghoulish combines known as trusts that have proved themselves the enslavers of our people, another slyly-robed Pharisee who oversees a diocese in the West, declares that the horny handed sons of farmers are spoiled by an excess of education, and that they should be taught to seek for contentment in the limited opportunities of the narrow farm; while still another who is a distinguished prelate, an archbishop in the largest church in the world, gives intemperance to this un-American and despairing language: 'I have come to look upon the present agitation as the great test of universal suffrage. "The ministers have chosen in this campaign to cast their lot with the menacing rich, the avareicious oppressor, the legalized robber who reaps where he has not sown, and drinks the blood of his human victims. And let me say it to the shame of the church that that is the attitude which in all ages she has assumed toward true human progress. "During the progress of the address President Cleveland's name was roundly hissed. Then some one among the audience suggested three cheers for the Journal, which were given with rife applause. Miss Emelie Edwards then rendered a patriotic song and won applause.

The Democratic headquarters in the Barthold Hotel will return after the work of the night is completed and with the outlook—some final instructions.

Executive Chairman Truman left for Birmingham last evening. Mr. Truman is confident Bryan and Sewall will carry New York State. Clerk Huseon will leave for his home, Penn Yan, Yates County, to-day. Messrs. Danforth, Campbell, Truman and Huseon will return to the city Tuesday afternoon, after voting in their respective homes. Some one will be left in charge all day to attend to any complaints that may be received. The Democratic managers fear that wholesale attempts at fraud will be made to-morrow. Counsel has been arranged for in every town in the State. Local Democrats it is urged, should immediately report to the State Committee any suspicious action on the part of Republicans, and attention will be given to the matter by some one acting for the State Committee. Two long distance telephones have been set up in the State Headquarters to facilitate reports. Returns from the State will be received in the evening.

ADAMS SURE OF ELECTION.

Scion of a Famous American Family Who is Running for Congress in the Fourteenth District. John Quincy Adams, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Fourteenth District, has been making three speeches nightly during the past three weeks in the district. His chances of election are rendered practically sure by the presence of three candidates in the field. Mr. Adams was born in 1848 in Lancaster, N. H. This is his first race for an elective office, although he was in the entry and liquidating department of the Custom House from 1867 to 1869, under ex-Secretary of the Treasury Robert J. Walker, "father of the Walker Tariff of '66." Adams is the great-grandson of Colonel Adams, who surrendered his sword to George III. to join that has shaped American history and John Adams of the Colonies. He is the son of a son of a son of a son of Lexington to Massachusetts troops who passed the line at the battle of the Clouds in Lancaster, N. H., where he died at the age of 81.

O'BRIEN SURE OF VICTORY. The Ex-Sheriff Sends Cheering News to Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, and Chairman James K. Jones. Ex-Sheriff O'Brien sent the following telegram last night: New York, Nov. 1, 1896. Governor John P. Altgeld, Chicago, Ill.: The so-called sound money and Republican parade yesterday was a comparative fizzle. Not over 50,000 men were in line and of these at least one-half were from out of town and of the remainder 20,000 were for Bryan. We are sure of the State of New York and this country. Congratulations to you in advance on your success in Illinois, I am yours, (Signed) JAMES O'BRIEN, New York, Nov. 1, 1896. Hon. James K. Jones, Chairman Democratic National Committee, Chicago, Ill.: There has been a wonderful change in the sentiment here during the past week. We have a great prospect of carrying the State, although the Republicans are still boasting an easy victory. Bryan is sure of this city by at least 30,000 plurality. I predict a surprise party for the gold bugs. (Signed) JAMES O'BRIEN, The Young Democracy will receive election returns at the St. Cloud Hotel headquarters.

FAIL TO SCARE MURPHY. A Creditor Demanded Gold and Was Refused, So He Said Any American Money Would Do. Denis Murphy, of Lowell, Mass., recently ordered some goods from the A. Riffarth Company, of No. 42 Barclay street. The goods were shipped and the bill sent. Mr. Murphy notified with surprise that the bill was "payable in gold, or its equivalent." He refused to receive the goods on these terms and so informed the A. Riffarth Company, which immediately replied that Mr. Murphy could pay his bill in silver, bank notes or check. Mr. Murphy's reply follows: A. Riffarth & Co., 42 Barclay street, New York: Dear Sir: The books received and your bill accompanying the same, payable in gold or its equivalent in value. This gold condition is new to me in paying my bills, and always pay in American currency. You will have to take those goods back unless you put in your bill American bank notes or check. Mr. Murphy's reply follows: In my younger days I left a single standard gold country to better my condition in America under the double standard (bimetallic), where Germans, Dutch, Irish, English, Scotch and all immigrants prospered until silver was demonetized in favor of gold. Ever since we have been drifting to the condition of things similar to that of the single standard gold countries of Europe—the few getting richer and the many getting poorer. Most Respectfully, DENIS MURPHY, 18 Appleton street, Lowell, Mass., Oct. 5, 1896. Mr. Murphy two days later received a letter saying: Dear Sir: You will please pay your bills either with silver, bills or check, just how you like, to suit your convenience. Hoping this bill to be satisfactory, we remain, yours, respectfully, THE A. RIFFARTH CO., F. C. BELFARDS, President.

TRILBY'S BIRTHPLACE. For about twelve years Mr. G. Du Maurier, the author of "Trilby," resided at New Grove House, near the top of Hampstead, and it was here that "Trilby" and "Peter Ibbotson" were written, says the London Mail. In both books several of the characters were drawn by Mr. Du Maurier from some of his Hampstead neighbors. Last Autumn, however, he left Hampstead in favor of Kensington, and the house has been taken by the well-known philanthropist, Miss Mocoata, who has turned it into a girls' orphanage.

"THE COUNTRY WILL SURVIVE." Cardinal Gibbons Briefly Refers to the Presidential Election. Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—Cardinal Gibbons preached at the Cathedral this morning, and touched on the political situation. His sermon in part was as follows: "We are on the eve of a Presidential election, both great parties contending for the mastery. They are leaving no stone unturned in order to be successful. A foreigner looking on and hearing the violent denunciations that one party is uttering against the other, and the terrible predictions in regard to the future of the country if the other party were to win, would think that we were on the verge of a dreadful revolution. "On next Wednesday morning he would find that it was but a bloodless revolution affected not by bullets, but by ballot boxes. A man is to be chosen for the highest position in the gift of his fellows, and important issues are at stake. Yet on next Wednesday morning the millions will bow gratefully to the will of the majority, the country will survive, and the nation will flourish and be perpetuated. Is this not good evidence that we are subject to the law?"

AFTER IT'S OVER. [Detroit News.] After it's all over you'll begin to realize the four neighbor, whom you've resented for years wasn't an anarchist or an enemy of the people.

MARCHED TO STANDARD PLAYERS.

Foremen Men Democratic Yield LARGE Workers I CRATIC

On Thursday and Friday," said Allan Benny, a prominent attorney of Bayonne, yesterday, "the foremen of the various departments in the oil works went to the men and asked each one if he was going to New York on Saturday. "What will I be going there for?" the men replied. "To march in the sound money parade," they were told. The men demurred. They did not want to lose a day's pay, they said, but they were told not to bother about that. The foremen further said: "We would like you to go."

"Now, when a foreman in the oil works says he would like a man to do something," said Mr. Benny, "the man who knows what is good for him generally does it. Many of the men came to me and asked what they should do. I advised every one to wear McKinley buttons, to march in the parade, to do anything that was demanded of them, and to vote as they pleased. "I am told," continued Mr. Benny, "that over 200 went from the Tidewater works, and there are 900 men there. All the bricklayers went, and over one-third of the men from the Standard works. Many of those who marched are members of our Bryan and Sewall Club, but they did not dare remain at home, after they were told that they would be paid for the day and that the foreman would 'like' them to go. "A workman in the Standard who marched for McKinley and will vote for Bryan said yesterday: 'The men in the Tidewater and Polar tell me that Superintendents Frank W. Edwards and P. R. Gray were very active in getting up the contingent. They saw men themselves and their foremen were urged to induce large numbers to go. We didn't see our superintendent, but the foreman saw us. Every man who could not offer a good excuse went, just as when they pulled the can shop at the Tidewater the other day, the largest number voted for McKinley, although we know that out of the 160 who voted 96 are sure for Bryan, 30 are probably for Bryan and the rest may vote for McKinley. "Nearly all the men in the works are skilled only to do the little thing which their daily duty. Few of them have trades. If they were discharged they could not get similar work anywhere save in Standard Oil works, where they would probably be blacklisted."
