

Christmas Picture by the Late Thomas Nast

From Robert Vonnoh's
Exhibition of Portraits

This Wash Drawing by the Famous Cartoonist Has Not Been Reproduced Before. It Is Called "St. Nicholas and the Christ Child," and Was Drawn in 1900, Shortly Before Mr. Nast's Death. He Seldom Drew Anything Except Cartoons—a Fact Which Has Caused His Friends to Consider the Christmas Picture One of Extraordinary Interest.

DANIEL CHESTER FRENCH,
Sculptor.

"FANTASY," Portrait of Bessie
Potter Vonnoh.

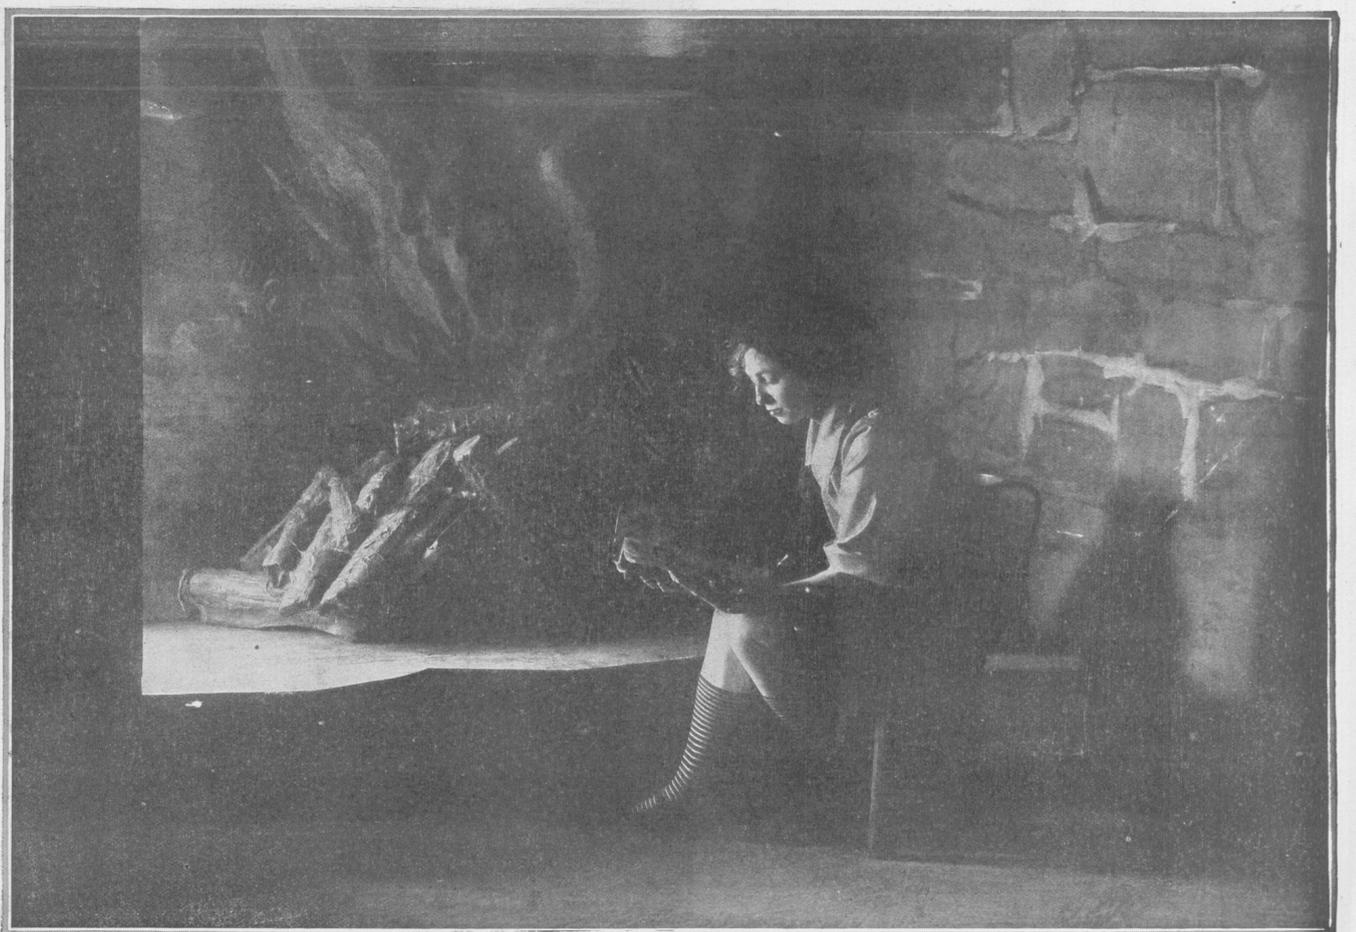

"SWEET PEAS."
The Vonnoh Pictures Have Been on View at the Montross Gallery, Along with Sculpture by Mrs. Vonnoh.

"Hop o' My Thumb," at the Manhattan Opera House

DE WOLF HOPPER
as the King of Mnemomica.

IRIS HAWKINS, the 60-Pound English Actress, as Hop.
(Photos by White.)