

GERMAN SOLDIERS HOLDING A RELIGIOUS SERVICE IN NORTHERN FRANCE BEFORE GOING INTO BATTLE. Gen. Von Heeringen, Easily Identified by His Snow-white Beard, May Be Seen Standing in the Front Row on the Right (Photo © by International News Service.)

FRENCH AND BRITISH SOLDIERS KILLED BY THE POISONOUS GASES USED BY THE GERMANS AT HILL 60. The Fighting Has Been Severe Here Also, as Shown by the Condition of the Trees, Some of Which Have Been Cut Down by Shells

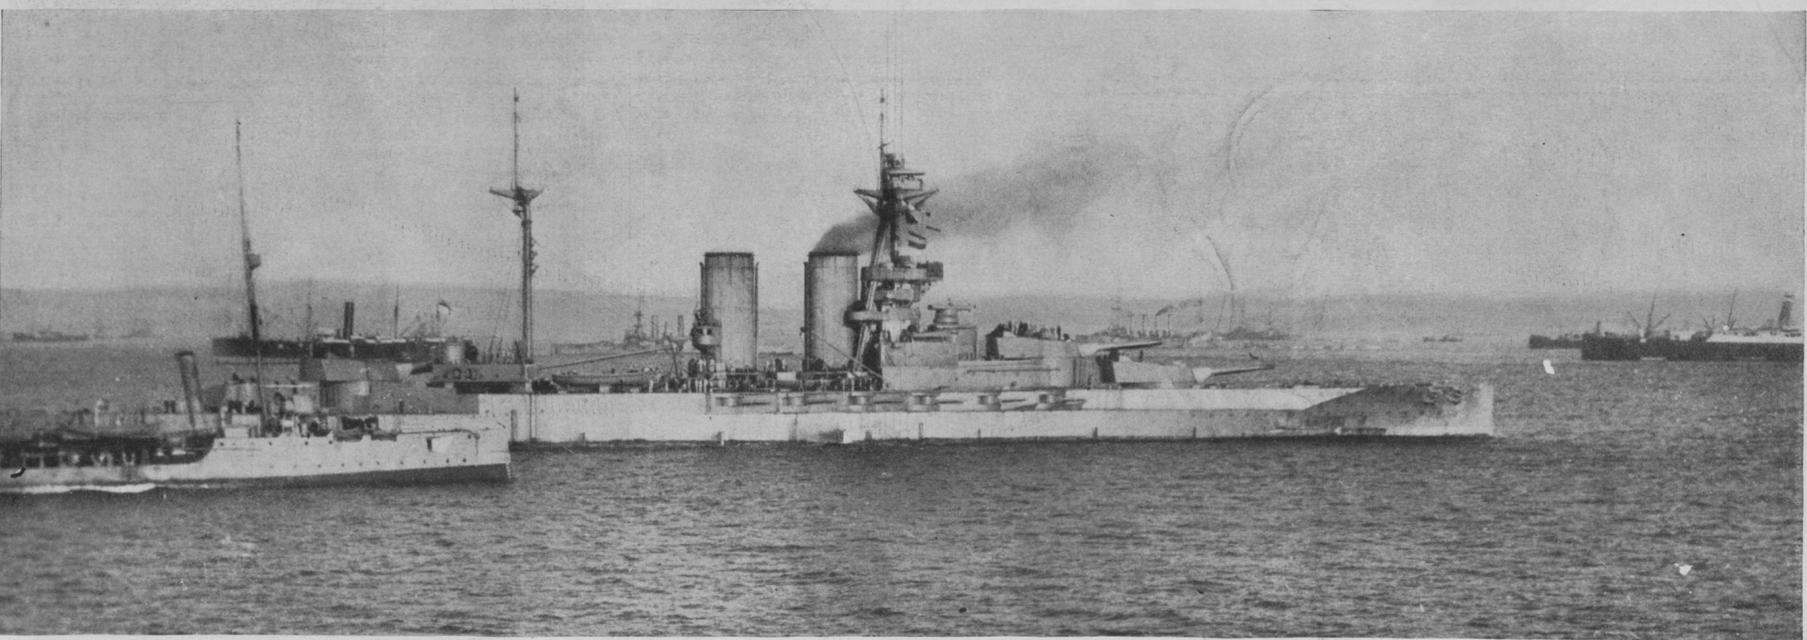

(Photos © by Underwood & Underwood.)

Twenty-eighth and Thirty-first Battalions from Winnipeg Reach Montreal on Their Way to the War Front in Europe

(Photo from Chesterfield & McLaren.)

STATUE OF JOAN OF ARC COVERED WITH FLOWERS BY THE BRITISH RESIDENTS OF PARIS IN EXPRESSION OF THEIR APPRECIATION OF FRENCH FRIENDSHIP (Photo from Medem Photo Service.)

H. M. S. QUEEN ELIZABETH, LARGEST OF BRITISH DREADNOUGHTS, AND THE ALLIED FRENCH AND BRITISH FLEETS IN THE DARDANELLES READY TO COVER LANDING FORCES