

REMARKABLE PANORAMIC VIEW OF A GREAT RENDEZVOUS OF WAGON TRAINS BEHIND THE FRENCH LINES ON THE SOMME FRONT.
From a French Official Photograph.
(Photo © by American Press Assn., From Medem.)

Lonely French Courier Riding Through the Principal Street of What Was Once the Town of Assevillers, in the Somme Section, Recaptured from the Germans.
(From Underwood & Underwood.)

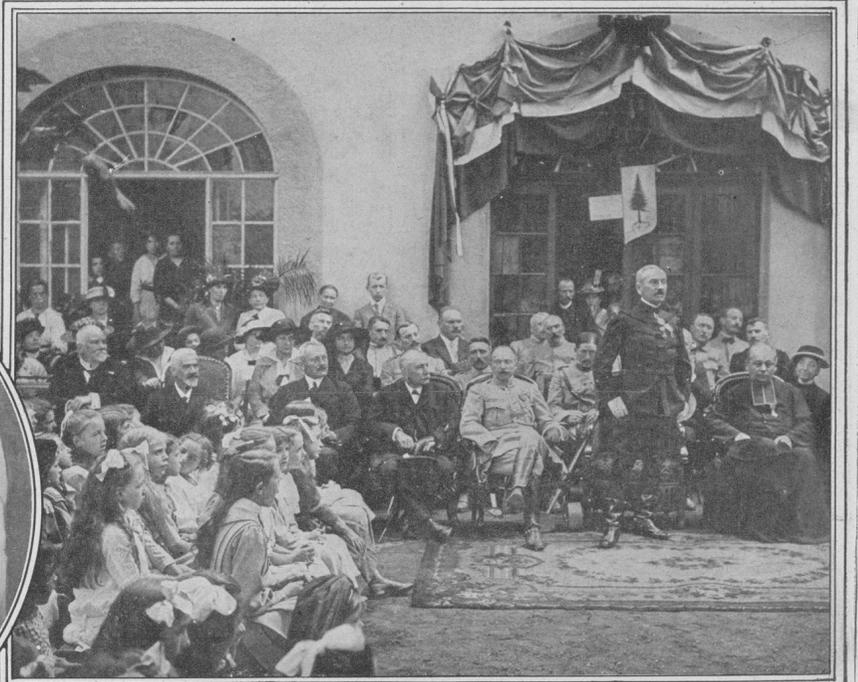

FRENCH SOLDIER, BLINDED IN BATTLE, AND HIS BRIDE, NOW A NURSE IN THE AMERICAN HOSPITAL AT NEULLY.
Standing With Their Friends, Including Several Other Blind Soldiers, Before the Statue of Joan of Arc, and the Little Neully Chapel in Which the Marriage Ceremony Was Performed.

WILLIAM THAW, AMERICAN AVIATOR, ATTENDING A SERVICE HELD IN HONOR OF KIFFIN ROCKWELL, OF ATLANTA, A BROTHER AVIATOR, KILLED NEAR THANN, ALSACE.
(Photo by Underwood & Underwood.)

Wounded French Soldiers, at the American Hospital at Neully, Wearing the "Aeroplane Splint," an American's Invention, Which, Dispatches Say, Is Now Being Copied in All the War Hospitals of France.

FRENCH CITIZENS OF THANN, ALSACE, HOLDING A PUBLIC CELEBRATION OF ITS RECAPTURE FROM THE GERMANS.
The New Mayor, Who Lost an Arm Early in the Struggle, Is Presiding, and the French Commander of the Town Is Speaking. Prizes Were Awarded to the School Children Present Who Did Particularly Good Work During the Last Session. (Photo from Paul Thompson.)