

THE INTERNED GERMAN FREIGHT SHIP LIEBENFELS SINKING IN THE HARBOR OF CHARLESTON, S. C.

She Began to Settle Deep Into the Water Soon After the Report Reached Charleston That the United States Government Had Broken Off Diplomatic Relations with Germany, Giving Rise to the Report That She Had Been Scuttled.

(Photo © American Press Assn.)

Count Adam Tarnowski von Tarnow, Who Arrived to Take Up the Duties of Austrian Ambassador on the Eve of the Delivery of Passports to His Colleague, Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador.

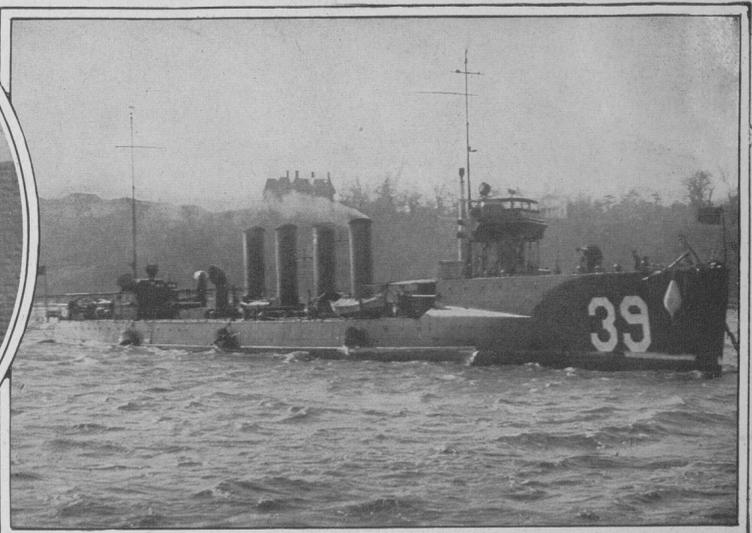

NEW YORK CITY POLICE GUARDING THE GERMAN SHIPS INTERNED IN THE HUDSON AT THE FOOT OF WEST 135TH STREET.

(Photo © by Underwood & Underwood.)

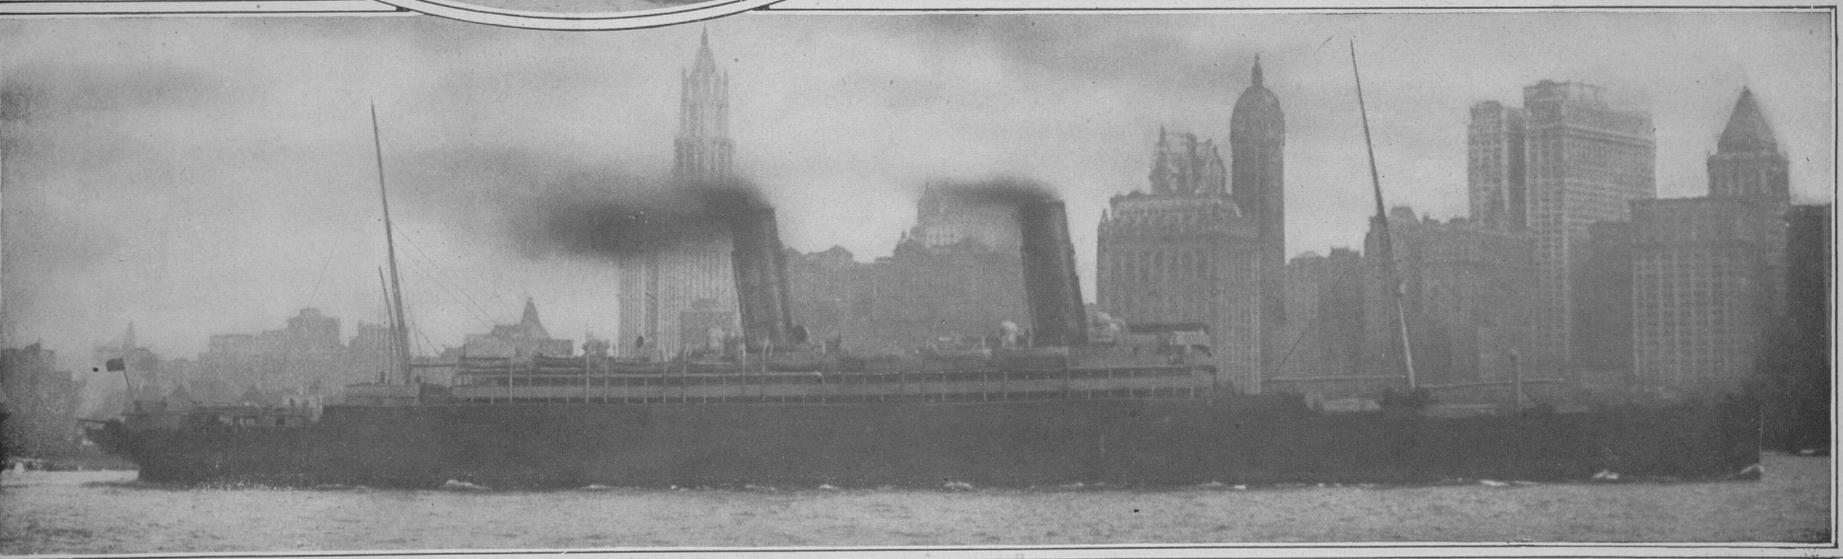

GATES TO THE NEW YORK NAVY YARD, BROOKLYN, WHICH FOR YEARS HAVE BEEN OPEN TO SIGHTSEERS, NOW CLOSED TO ALL EXCEPT EMPLOYEES AS A PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE.

(Photo by Central News Photo Service.)

UNITED STATES DESTROYER HENLEY ON GUARD AT QUARANTINE JUST WITHIN THE NARROWS. No Ships Pass Out Without Reporting to Her and Receiving Permission.

(Photo © International Film Service.)

BRITISH LINER CARMANTIA SAILING ON LAST SUNDAY FOR LIVERPOOL IN DEFIANCE OF THE GERMAN THREAT TO SINK ALL SHIPS WHICH ENTER THE "BARRED ZONE" AROUND ENGLAND.

(Photo © International Film Service.)