

THE LIVING LIBERTY BELL, COMPOSED OF 25,000 OFFICERS AND MEN IN TRAINING AT CAMP DIX, WRIGHTSTOWN, N. J. This Remarkable Photograph Was Taken on the Afternoon of June 20, Last, When the Entire Cantonment Personnel Was Assembled On the Drill Field in Historic Formation to Which Had Been Applied, with Mathematical Precision, the Laws of Perspective. These Are the Bell's Dimensions in Feet: Length of Beam at Top, 368, Width of Bell at Bottom, 64, Length of Each Bolt, 395, Width of Beam, Top to Bottom, 435, Total Length, Top to Bottom, 580. Due to Effecting a Correct Perspective, There Are More Than Eleven Times as Many Men in the Beam as in the Bell Itself. (© Mole & Thomas.)

Have You a Boy in Khaki?

THE day he left for camp and you came home to a house that seemed strangely empty—the day you got his first homesick letter—the day he came home on a furlough—the day he sailed for France—how every one of these days is burned into your brain! How they blur before your eyes on the pages of the book you are reading and weave themselves into the stitches of your knitting!

Here is a mother whose only son joined the colors, although he was barely nineteen—a mother who tells of the struggle that goes on deep within her—the struggle between love of her son and duty to her country. All her thoughts are your thoughts—her memories of her boy are your memories of your boy—her very heart-beats are your heart-beats.

There are the Boy's letters—brave, manly, humorous letters, full of youth and homesickness and love and enthusiasm. And there is the Girl—a fine, sweet American girl—and a quick wedding—and then the parting—and two women left to be brave and to wait.

If you would be cheered and comforted in spirit, get this book today at the nearest bookstore. Read it yourself, and then give a copy to every mother you know with a son in the war.
