

REMARKABLE VIEW OF A BATTLE SCENE ON THE MARNE IN WHICH LINES OF FRENCH INFANTRYMEN ARE CRAWLING FORWARD INTO ACTION BEHIND A FRENCH TANK, This French Official Photograph Having Been Taken from a Similar Line Just Ahead of the Units shown. (French Pictorial Service.)

FRENCH TANKS, ENVELOPED BY THEIR OWN BATTLE SMOKE, MAKING A JOINT ATTACK ON A GERMAN-INFESTED WOOD Near the Banks of the Marne, French Infantrymen Advancing in Open Formation Behind Them. (French Pictorial Service.)

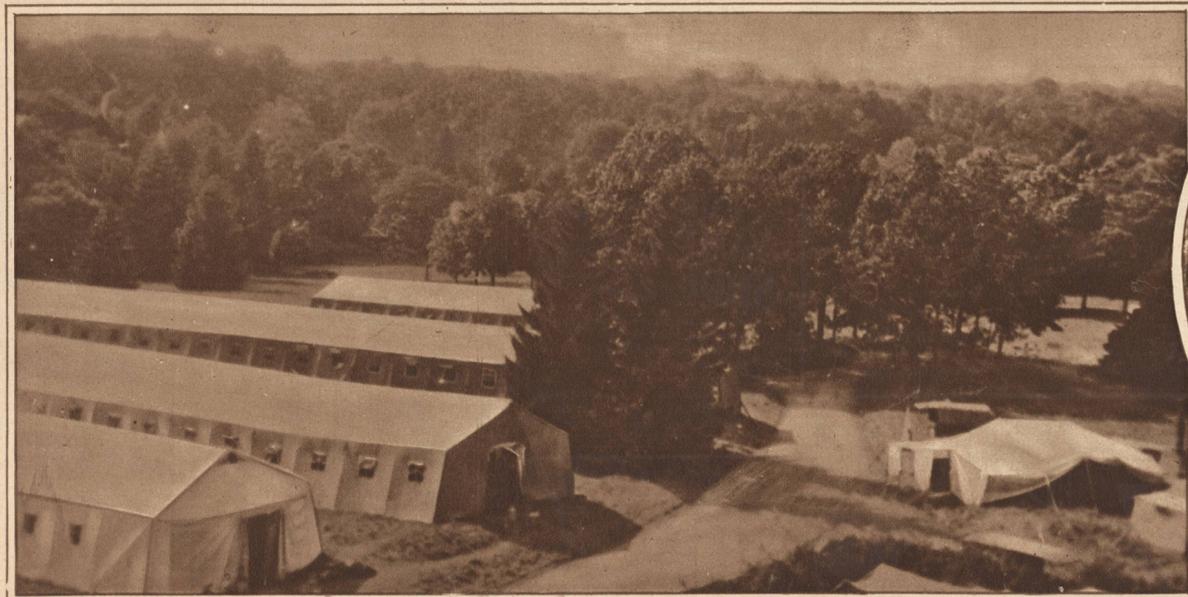

PRESIDENT POINCARE, ON HIS RECENT VISIT TO CHATEAU-THIERRY, LEAVING THE SHELL-TORN CITY HALL. (French Pictorial Service.)

PRESIDENT POINCARE, IN THE NAME OF THE FRENCH PEOPLE, THANKING TWO BAKERS OF CHATEAU-THIERRY WHO REMAINED THROUGHOUT THE GERMAN OCCUPATION TO SUPPLY THE FRENCH INHABITANTS WITH BREAD. (French Pictorial Service.)

U-boat Frightfulness: A Torpedoed Ship Abandoned by Her Crew but Still Afloat Upon the High Seas, a New Menace to Navigation. (© International Film Service.)

THE TENT WARDS OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS HOSPITAL AT JOUY, FRANCE, BOMBED ! On July 15 by German Aviators, with Two Persons Killed, Fourteen Injured, and Two Tents Destroyed, Notwithstanding the Fact That an Immense White Cross Was Marked Out on the Lawn. (© Underwood & Underwood.)

INTERIOR OF ONE OF THE AMERICAN HOSPITAL TENTS AT JOUY, FRANCE AFTER THE GERMAN AIR RAID. Beds and Bedding Were Torn to Shreds and Four Patients and Nine Orderlies Injured, the Splotches on the Tent Walls Being Holes Pierced in the Canvas by Flying Shrapnel. (© Underwood & Underwood.)