

PRESIDENT POINCARÉ AND PREMIER CLEMENCEAU OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC MAKING THEIR RECENT STATE ENTRY INTO THE REDEEMED CITY OF METZ.

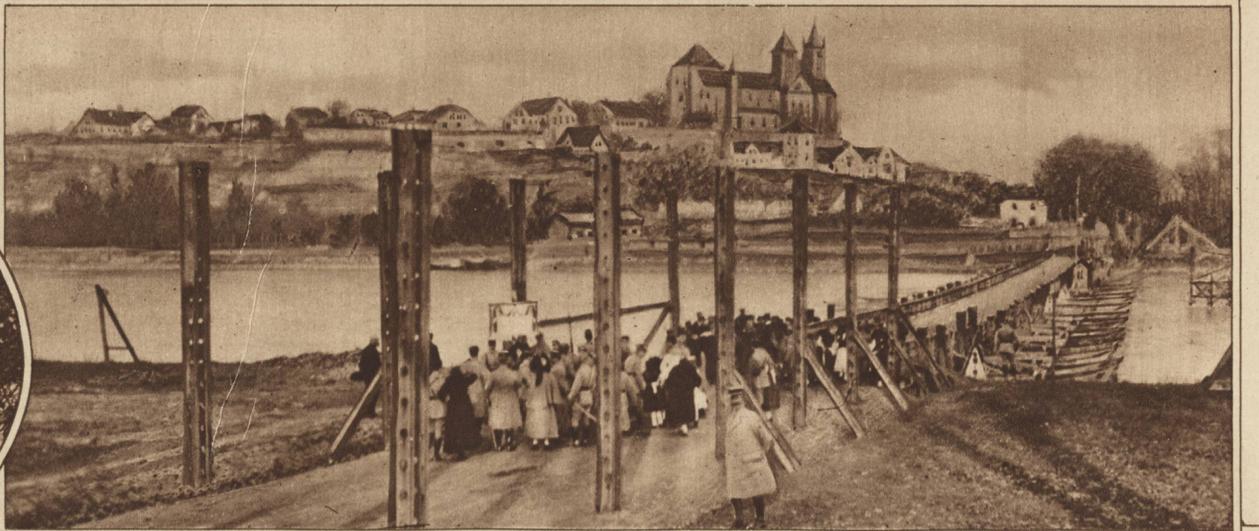

PRESIDENT POINCARÉ, IN THE CITY OF METZ, PRESENTING TO GENERAL PETAIN, COMMANDER OF THE FRENCH, THE BATON OF A MARSHAL OF FRANCE.
In the Group at the Left Are, Left to Right: Marshal Joffre, Marshal Foch, Field Marshal Haig, General Pershing, and, Respectively, the Belgian, Italian, and Polish Commanders in France.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)

MARSHAL PETAIN, Immediately After Having Received His Baton, Receiving the Congratulations of the Allied Commanders. He Is Shown Shaking Hands with Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig.
(Photos Underwood & Underwood.)

THE AMERICAN ARMISTICE DELEGATES AT SPA, BELGIUM, the Former German Emperor's Military Headquarters, and Now the Seat of the Representatives of the Belligerents Charged with Carrying Out the Terms of the Armistice.

POILUS AND ALSATIAN CHILDREN, IN THE REDEEMED LAND OF FRANCE, Looking Across the Rhine from Neu-Breisach Toward German Country and Alt-Breisach, and Its Famous Mediaeval Church Crowning the Distant Eminence.

BELGIAN CAVALRY IMMEDIATELY AFTER THEIR ENTRANCE AND OCCUPATION OF THE GERMAN CITY OF AIX-LA-CHAPELLE.

THE BRITISH COMMANDER IN CHIEF AND THE COMMANDERS OF GREAT BRITAIN'S FIVE TRIUMPHANT ARMIES IN FRANCE. They Are, Left to Right, First Row: General Sir Herbert Plumer, Second Army; Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, General Sir Herbert Rawlinson, Fourth Army. Second Row: General Sir Julian Byng, Third Army; General Sir William Birdwood, Fifth Army, and General Sir Henry Horne, First Army.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)