

ST. PATRICK'S GREAT PARADE OF 1919 EPITOMIZED IN A SINGLE PHOTOGRAPH. The Marchers, Who Were 25,000 Strong, Are Shown Following the Green, White, and Orange Banners of the "Irish Republic," with, in the Foreground, Wounded Soldiers of the "Old 69th," and in the Background, St. Patrick's Cathedral and the Official Reviewing Stand Occupied by the Leaders of Irish Aspirations in the United States. (Times Photo Service.)

OFFICIAL REVIEWERS IN FRONT OF ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL UNCOVERED FOR THE "STARS AND STRIPES." In the Panel, Left to Right, Are: Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, Mgr. Deneen, Governor Smith, Supreme Court Justice Coahan, Mgr. Mooney, Archbishop Hayes, and Mayor Hylan. (Paul Thompson.)

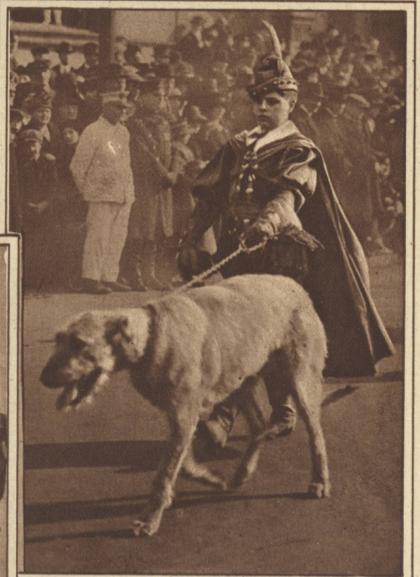

ARCHBISHOP PATRICK J. HAYES, New Head of the Archdiocese of New York, Occupying the Place of Honor on the Reviewing Stand. (International Film Service.)

SCHOOLBOY MARCHERS IN ANCIENT GAELIC COSTUME REPRESENTING AN EARLY MILITANT PERIOD IN IRISH HISTORY. (Times Photo Service.)

"SINN FEIN FOR EVER": IRISH GIRL MARCHERS WEARING THE COLORS OF "IRISH FREEDOM." (Times Photo Service.)

IRISH LAD IN ANCIENT GAELIC COSTUME AND HIS MASCOT AT THE HEAD OF A COLUMN OF BOYS SIMILARLY DRESSED. (Times Photo Service.)

A. E. F. VETERANS OF THE 165TH INFANTRY, OLD 69TH, NEW YORK, LED BY MAJOR MICHAEL HEANY, PASSING THE OFFICIAL REVIEWERS. (Times Photo Service.)

FORMER SUPREME COURT JUSTICE JOHN W. GOFF, GRAND MARSHAL OF THE PARADE, BARES HIS HEAD IN RESPONSE TO AN OUTBURST OF CHEERS FROM THE REVIEWING STAND. (International Film Service.)