

THE AMERICAN BATTLESHIP MISSOURI ARRIVING IN HOBOKEN WITH 2,250 HOMECOMING TROOPS ON BOARD, Including the 106th Machine Gun Company, with the 27th Division When It Went Through the Hindenburg Line.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

GUSTAVE NOSKE, Chief of the German Military Forces Under the Ebert Government, Who Has So Far Crushed the Spartacide Uprisings.

(© Press Illustrating Service.)

MACHINE GUN FIGHTERS OF THE 106TH COMPANY, All New York Men, with the 27th and 30th Divisions in Northern France and Flanders, Immediately After Arriving Home.

(© Western Newspaper Union.)

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER PATRICK N. L. BELLINGER, Head of the Naval Air Station at Hampton Roads, Said to Have Been Selected to Make the First American Official Flight Across the Atlantic. Commander Bellinger was the first American to fly under fire, the incident having taken place over Vera Cruz, Mexico, in 1915.

(International Film Service.)

MISS YVONNE RANDOLPH STEMMLER, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Stemmler, Whose Engagement to Major Bascom Franklyn Morris Has Been Announced.

(Strelchki.)

SOPHIE BRASLAU, in the Indian Title Role of Cadman's "Shanewis," at the Metropolitan Opera House.

(© Mishkin.)

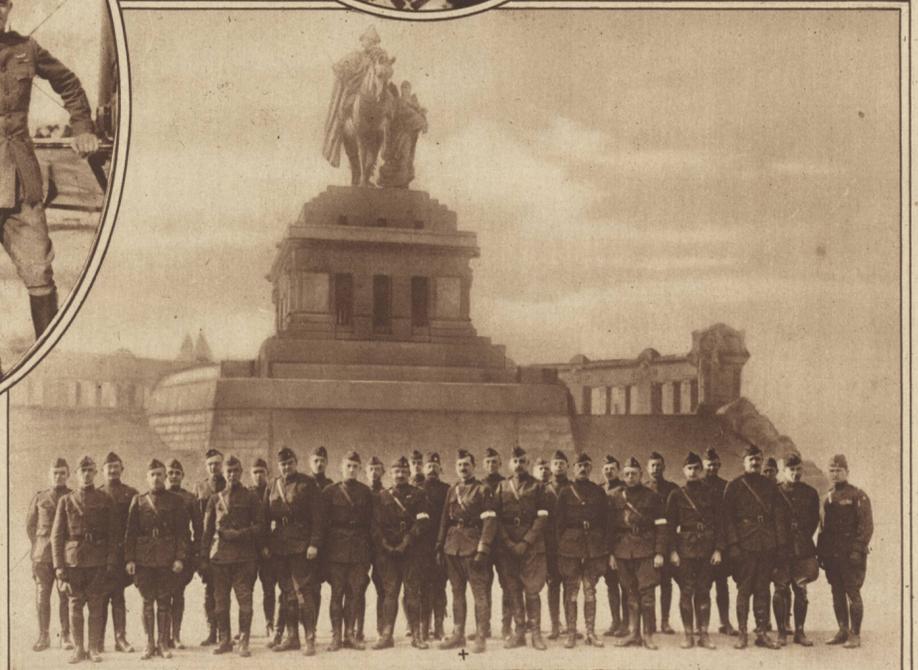

MAJOR DAVID MCK. PETERSEN, American Ace, Killed a Week Ago in the Fall of His Airplane at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Major Petersen is Standing Beside the Ill-Fated Machine with, at His Right, Lieutenant Francis Xavier Pavesick, Formerly of the Advertising Department of The Times, Who Was the Major's Flight Companion and Suffered Severe Injuries at the Time.

From a Photograph Taken on the Day Before the Accident.

AIRPLANE VIEW OF THE WAR-SWEPT ARGONNE FOREST in Which American Troops Did Much of Their Hardest Fighting, and from Which They Drove the Germans with Heavy Enemy Losses. In the Central Background There Appears a Small Cemetery Bristling with Crosses Above the Graves of Soldiers Who Fell Thereabout.

PERSONNEL OF THE INTELLIGENCE DEPARTMENT, THIRD AMERICAN ARMY, NOW KEEPING WATCH IN THE RHINELAND. Grouped in Front of the Giant Statue of William I. at the Confluence of the Rhine and Moselle Rivers. For Years This Statue, from Its Lofty Perch, Has Watched Over This Section of Germany. That Is Now the Present Duty of the Third Army's Intelligence Department, Commanded by Colonel R. H. Williams, Indicated by the Cross.

(Times Photo Service.)