

THE 5TH MARINES OF THE 2D DIVISION PASSING THROUGH NEW YORK'S VICTORY ARCH on Their Five-Mile Homecoming March of Triumph Up Fifth Avenue, the First Division of the United States Regular Army to Parade as a Unit in New York City.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

THE OFFICIAL REVIEWERS SEE THE PARADE FROM A STAND IN FRONT OF THE LIBRARY.

They Are, Left to Right: Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy; Mayor Hylan, Admiral Benson, Vice Admiral Gleaves, and Major General George Barnett, Commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps.

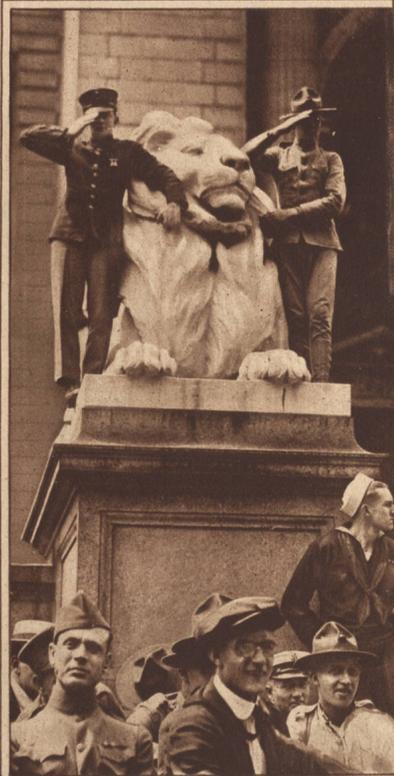

(Times Wide World Photos.)

STALWART FIGHTERS OF THE FAMOUS 2D DIVISION PELTED WITH A NEW KIND OF HAND GRENADE ON FIFTH AVENUE, Their Pathway Being Literally Strewn With Flowers by Flower Girls.

MAJOR GEN. JOHN A. LEJEUNE, Fighting Commander of the 2d Division, Received at the City Hall by Mayor Hylan. (© Underwood & Underwood.)

WOUNDED MARINES OF THE 2D DIVISION SALUTING THE FLAG OF THEIR COMMAND FROM A PLINTH OF THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

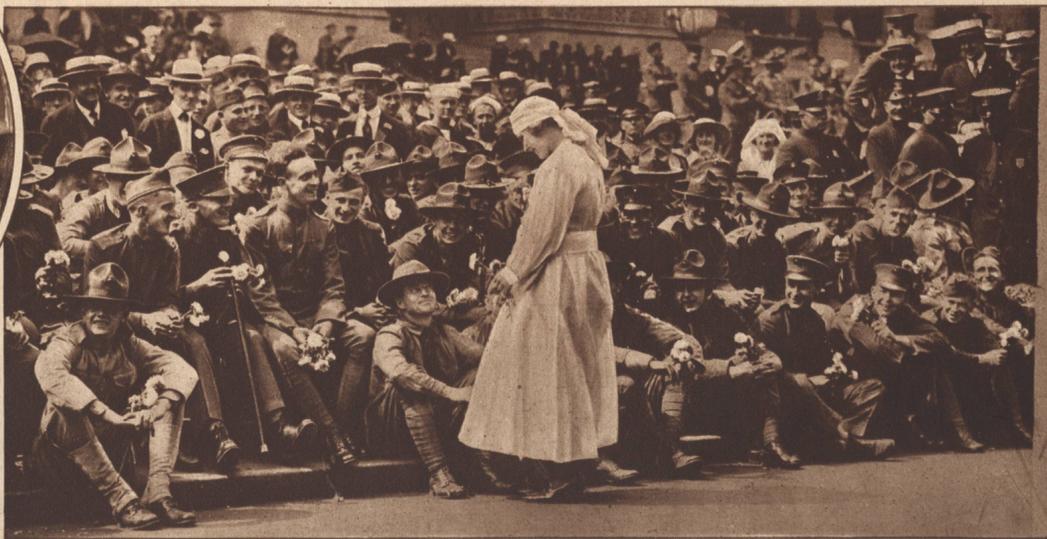

SERGEANT W. H. PHELPS, 5th Marines, and His Angora Mascot, Captured from a German at Belleau Wood, and Now His New Master's Constant Companion.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

MOTHER RUSHES FROM THE CURB TO GREET HER "DEVIL DOG" SON IN THE RANKS OF THE 2D DIVISION.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

"TAKE THE FLOWERS, DON'T HOLD HER HAND, JACK:" WOUNDED MARINES OF THE 2D DIVISION, Occupying a Point of Vantage in Front of the Public Library, in Gay Banter with a Knights of Columbus Flower Girl. (Times Wide World Photos.)