

GENERAL PERSHING, FROM A BALCONY OF THE WALDORF-ASTORIA, REVIEWING THE LAST SECTIONS OF THE PARADE OF THE FIRST DIVISION, WHICH HE HIMSELF LED.

Having Gone Immediately to the Hotel from Washington Square, Where the Parade Disbanded. This Composite Photograph Shows Him, With Personal Friends About Him, Looking Down Upon the Gallant Men and Superb Equipment With Which He Fought for the Freedom of the World.

(© International Film Service.)

GENERAL PERSHING KISSING THE FLAG OF HIS COUNTRY

in the Presence of Tens of Thousands of Boy Scouts and School Children at the Ceremonies in His Honor in Central Park.

(© Press Illustrating Service.)

MRS. CORNELIUS VANDERBILT

Wife of Brigadier General Vanderbilt, and Friends Reviewing the Parade from a Window of Her Residence, a Number of Small Boys Having Also Been Invited from the Streets to Share Better Vantage Point.

(© International Film Service.)

WHERE NONE BUT VICTORS MAY TREAD: "PERSHING'S OWN," MEN OF THE FIRST DIVISION'S COMPOSITE REGIMENT, Fresh from Their Triumphant Marches in Paris and London, Passing Under the Arch of Victory in Fifth Avenue.

(Times Wide World Photos.)

PERSHING'S FAREWELL TO THE RECEDING SHORES OF FRANCE: FROM THE BRIDGE OF THE LEVIATHAN THE AMERICAN COMMANDER WAVES HIS FINAL ADIEU TO THE LAND HE DID SO MUCH TO SUCCOR.

(International Film Service.)

THE HANDCLASPS OF FAREWELL: MARSHAL FOCH BIDS GENERAL PERSHING ADIEU AT THE WATER'S EDGE AT BREST.

(© Underwood & Underwood.)

PRESIDENT WILSON ON HIS TRANSCONTINENTAL TOUR, Warmly Thanking a Young Woman of St. Joseph, Mo., Whose Tribute Was a Bouquet of Flowers Plucked from the Fields.

(© International Film Service.)

HERS TO SIT IN THE PRESENCE OF ROYALTY: Mrs. Dongal McLan, Oldest Canadian in All the North Bay Section of Ontario, Greeting the Prince of Wales.

(Courtesy C. P. R.)