

AUTOMOBILE STAGES ON ALL CITY STREETS.

One of the New Automobile Stages.

The General Carriage Company, which was supposed to be a cab company, has bought the right to use the compressed air system, and will run coaches on all the principal streets of the city. A bill passed by the Legislature gives the company the right to run vehicles on any street in the cities of this State.

The General Carriage Company will use automobile stages in New York streets at a five-cent fare, instead of the cab or carriage service which it was expected to introduce. These new conveyances will be equipped with pneumatic-tired wheels and propelled by the compressed air system of the Auto-Truck Company, in which Richard Croker is interested. The right to use this system has been purchased by the General Carriage Company at a price said by President Hoedler, of the Auto-Truck Company, to be "away up." Unauthoritatively it is said to be $225,000. "The General Carriage Company appears to have plenty of capital," said President Hoedler yesterday. "They expect to go right ahead with their enterprise. They have authority from the Legislature to run automobiles through the streets of any city in the State, and of course, New York will be the starting point." It is said that the purchase of the compressed air rights does not prevent the auto-truck people from competing with the Little Lawrence Engeln Amused Himself with a Clothes Line.

NOOSE ON THE END OF IT, MOUNT VERNON IN LINE. But Doctors Doubt Its Success, as It Is Difficult to Fix the Guilt.

Chicago, Ill., May 11.—Three-year-old Lawrence Engeln, whose parents live at No. 1511 West Forty-seventh street, met death this morning through one of the strangest accidents ever recorded in Chicago.

Lawrence's mother was busy in the house and had left the little fellow to amuse himself on the back porch of the flat. The child frolicked about for some time when a dangling clothes line attracted his attention. Reaching up and out from the railing of the porch the baby seized it. At the end a noose had been tied and the baby soon began to experiment with it. The toddler pushed his head through the noose and looked about, proud of the exploit.

A moment later the baby lost his footing and was swung off the porch, the rope tightening round his neck. His little hands clutching at the noose in helpless desperation. He tried to scream, but the choking rope cut off the cry. A neighbor, happened to see the struggling baby swinging at the end of the rope and screamed for Miss Engeln. She rushed to the rescue, and upon the porch and grasped at the rope. She disengaged the rope from its tiny neck, but the baby's life was gone.

SLOANE HOUSE IS BEING DISMANTLED.

House Where the Belmonts Are Visiting.

THE palms and plants which once contributed to the beauty of the Sloane residence, No. 9 East Seventy-second street, are being removed to a fashionable florist's conservatory.

The splendid home which Henry T. Sloane gave his wife when they separated and which she transferred to him on the occasion of her recent marriage to Mr. Perry Belmont, will soon be closed for the Summer. What disposition Mr. Sloane will make of it next Fall is not known. The picture shows Beaumont, the home of Hal K. BELMONT HONEYMOON INCLUDES MARKETING.

Lexington, Ky., May 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont drive into town each morning from the Beaumont farm, where they are stopping, to secure what they desire for their table. To-day they were at the market, and purchased extensively of fresh meats, lettuce, radishes, young onions, cucumbers, Spring peas, etc.

After market they went shopping, just as if they were new settlers in the Blue Grass with only ordinary means. They have employed servants, and will probably remain here for several weeks. H. P. Headley, proprietor of Beaumont, who lives in the city, drives out daily to see to their wants.

HATCHET DUEL IN RICH MAN'S HOUSE.

Special Officer Felled by a Negro Burglar and Fights for Life.

When Chauncey Marshall, whose father was one of the organizers of the Corlidge Trust, went out of town a month ago, he left the key of his house, No. 137 Joralemon street, Brooklyn, at the American District Telegraph branch office at Montague and Clinton streets.

The company had already fitted the Marshall house with a burglar alarm connection, connecting with the big zone in the city. The code number was 511. In addition to this, one of their special officers, John Bader, formerly a marine, visited the house every day.

Early yesterday morning the big gang rang out "511." Bader pulled on his cap and raced over to the empty house. As the shutters were all closed he found it quite dark when he entered the main hall—so dark that he did not see the big negro, who hit him on the back of the head with a hatchet, knocking him down.

Twice more Bader was struck as he lay on the carpet. Then the officer grabbed the negro's legs and threw him.

In the life and death struggle that followed Bader managed to get his antagonist's woolly head "in chancery," as the pugilists say, and assured to hammer it with the hatchet. But he was weak from bleeding and the negro's skull was thick, so a conscientious attempt to kill the burglar was unsuccessful.

The stranger was badly wounded, but he broke away and escaped to the yard, where he scaled a brick wall and dropped into Hunt's alley.

Bader had just strength enough to reach the front steps, and then he fell in a swoon. His wounds were bound up in the College Hospital.

The police are watching the hospitals and doctors' offices for a negro who a battered head.

NEGLIGE COSTUMES BARRED IN HAVANA—RESULT.

Artist Oppert Pictures Some Results of General Ludlow's Order That Coats Must Be Worn by Natives in Havana Province.

SEÑOR PERFECTO LA COSTA, Mayor of Havana, who has kindly given his first name to a brand of very good cigars, has issued the surprising order that the inhabitants of Cuba's capital shall no longer go about attired in undershirts and trousers. They must wear coats all the year round. Three loud cheers from the office of Anthony Comstock were the first intimation that the order had been promulgated. Mr. Comstock, who was found shaking his hands with himself, was delighted. He said he wished that the order could be extended to New York, but he had very little hope that such would be the case. "In this city," Mr. Comstock is reported not to have said, "the public vision is frequently outraged by the sight of men in bal-

Dress suits, ulsters and frock coats are hurriedly assembled by the citizens, only too anxious to cater to American prejudices, even if they do not understand them. The reporter, it is said, is the very reverse of picturesque, and they will regard the new rule as a great hardship. New Yorkers who want to go about this Summer with very little on except the epidemic fear greatly that the regulation is being tried on the Cubans to see how it will work, with a view to enforcing it here if it is a success. They see all sorts of discomforts upon the horizon. Meanwhile the Havana people have to improve costumes from what they have on hand in order that General Ludlow may not be further shocked.
