

OHIO BOSSES SCARED BY JONES'S STRENGTH. TICKETS. JUSTICE BARRETT NAMED FOR THE SUPREME COURT.

"We'll Smash McLean This Year, and if Hanna Lives We'll Smash Him Next," Declares the Mayor, to Whose Support Labor Is Rallying.

BY JAMES CREELMAN.

TOLEDO, Oct. 11.—The Jones movement in Ohio is one of the most extraordinary things in American politics, yet there is an organized silence in the Democratic and Republican press which is equally remarkable. It is a newspaper conspiracy pure and simple.

In all the towns and cities of Ohio, particularly in the northern counties, great multitudes of workmen are wearing Jones buttons and proclaiming their determination to make the famous Welsh Mayor of Toledo Governor of the State if they can.

There is something impressive, startling in the swiftness with which his doctrine of non-partisan government is spreading. There are in this sudden political development the prickings and stirrings of a giant uprising in the near future that means no good to President McKinley and Senator Hanna. Both Democratic and Republican leaders admit privately that the Jones movement is phenomenal; that it is carrying all before it in the factory districts, but the newspapers refer to it as a comparatively insignificant incident of the campaign.

The importance of this rise into power of a candidate who boasts that he is a man without a party can hardly be exaggerated, for the closer I get to the seat of authority in the Jones movement, the more I can see that its strength will be thrown to Mr. Bryan next year, and that means a Democratic victory in Ohio in the Presidential campaign.

Mayor Jones admitted to-day that he and his supporters would take an active part in the Presidential struggle.

Hanna's Fight Next Year.

Judge Nash, the Hanna candidate, will carry the State this year. But Mr. Hanna knows it will be a barren victory. The Democrats and Jonesites will unite and sweep Ohio next year.

The Jones movement is so formidable that a Democratic editor in this part of the State has made public a letter received by him, the name of the signer being suppressed. It reads:

"Dear Sir—I have been appointed by the Democratic press bureau to write to all Democratic editors in the congressional district to urge them to refrain from mentioning anything about the Jones movement in their columns, as it is believed such publicity is doing great harm to McLean."

Mayor Jones is one of the strongest personalities in the continent—a successful manufacturer, orator, song writer and hard-headed business man.

Money Is Not All.

"But," he says, "living for the sake of money is a poor sort of life. A man who does it is making a mere monkey of himself." We were out for a drive.

"Look at that big house," he said, pointing to a mansion. "What a fool man to waste his money and energy in piling up a residence like that! It will make a slave of his wife. They would be happier in a smaller house. I made the same mistake myself. As we go on I will show you the little houses of the people who had to pay for that big house. Just notice that as the houses grow smaller the number of children increases. God bless them! They at least don't make distinctions between a rich man and a poor man. The only real democracy in the world is the democracy of children."

The Mayor talked frankly of his movement, and answered all questions without hesitation.

"Yes," he said, "McLean will be defeated. That is quite certain. I hope we shall defeat Nash, too. It isn't so much that I want to be the Governor of Ohio as that I want the people of the country to realize that they can free themselves from boss and party rule. This is not a visionary scheme, but a practical and simple plan.

"I was nominated by petition for Mayor of this city and was elected without the aid of a party. I have been nominated by petition as a candidate for Governor of Ohio, and you can see for yourself how the people are coming to the support of the idea. This is a scientific, common sense way of doing things.

Remedy for Bossism.

"The greatest curse in our politics is the struggle for a party nomination. In order to be the candidate of a party a man has to scheme and plot and spend money and tie himself body and soul with promises. He has to become the mere servant of a party boss or a group of bosses. But a man nominated by petition is tied to no one. He simply has to serve the people and satisfy them to secure a re-election. That is the scientific business way to go about it.

"The reason we have not come to this before is that we have been so busy hunting the dollar, so busy skinning each other that we haven't had time to devise a good American, workable, reasonable way of disposing of boss and party tyranny.

"I will take part in the fight next year. The bulk of the men who vote for me will no doubt support the Democratic candidate then. But this non-partisan movement will grow and grow. It will spread from Ohio to other States. Mr. McLean will be smashed this year, and if Mr. Hanna survives he will be smashed next year. The boss idea in a sensible nation like this is preposterous. Nomination by petition makes free men of the candidates and free men of those who vote for them.

Result He Hopes For.

"My candidacy last year in Toledo destroyed bossism here, and my candidacy for Governor has already started a panic among the bosses in the State. The Republican orators advise people to vote for McLean if they cannot vote for Nash, and McLean himself has advised an audience to vote for Nash if it will not vote for him.

"Why, the other day I was sitting beside Mr. McLean on a platform at Westerville when he leaned over and said in my ear: 'Jones, you ought to join us and help to down Hanna and bossism.' I had to laugh. I said: 'I'll tell you, McLean, if you really want to down Hanna and bossism I can give you a cinch. Just retire from the contest and support this non-partisan movement, and bossism in either party in Ohio will be ended forever. That, somehow, did not seem to appeal to him.'"

Mayor Jones stands also for municipal ownership, short hours of labor and the golden rule in politics. He has stirred the masses of Ohio profoundly and he has done it without newspapers or bonfires or processions or floods of money. It is an astonishing revelation of the tendency of things among the workmen in this typical, conservative State.

I never knew of a leader campaign that in this Ohio. The only living, growing thing here is the Jones movement. Mr. Jones will not be elected this year, but it is reasonably certain that he will upset all plans next year.

O. H. PLATT ANSWERS "ANTI-IMPERIALISTS."

Connecticut Senator Speaks on "Expansion" at Brooklyn Union League Club.

Senator Oveille H. Platt, of Connecticut, made an address on "Expansion" in the clubhouse of the Union League Club, in Brooklyn, last night.

Among other things he said that the "anti-imperialists" makes no complaint about the acquisition of Porto Rico, though her position and that of the Philippines are identical. Our right is the same to each.

All the consequences of war must be accepted by the nation that engages in war, and the unavoidable consequences of Dewey's triumph was that we should assume control of the Philippines. The assumption of control there was a duty that we owed to the nations of the world.

Senator Platt said that Aguinaldo had made war upon us while our hands were tied, and that the treaty of peace had been ratified, and asked if our army should have been surrendered to the "Tyrant" chief who had attacked us at Manila. To those who said that our possessions would never repay the nation for the money expended in securing peace he replied that the Government stands for more than dollars and cents.

For Magistrates in Richmond.

The Republicans of Richmond Borough last night nominated Albert E. Hadlock, at present private secretary to President Cleveland, for City Magistrate in the First District of the Borough, and William M. Jones, in the Second District.

FOR MAYOR OF YONKERS.

Sutherland Renominated by Republicans Despite Surrogate Silkman's Opposition.

The efforts of Surrogate Theodore H. Silkman and ex-Senator J. Irving Burns to defeat Mayor Leslie Sutherland for re-nomination in the Republican City primaries at Yonkers, last night, were unavailing. Surrogate Silkman, in whose court the Mayor is clerk, and who was closely allied with the young chief executive of Yonkers for a long period, deserted his former favorite a few days ago, and used his influence in the interests of Frederick C. Valentine, a New York lawyer.

It is asserted that the Surrogate feared Sutherland's growing power, and determined to curtail it. Sutherland's many friends rallied to his support, and the result shows that the Mayor is re-nominated by a vote of nearly 3 to 1.

Thomas C. Kadten Nominated.

The Judicial District Convention of the Democrats of the First District of Queens, in the Democratic club house at No. 13 Davis street, Long Island City, last night nominated Thomas C. Kadten, of Long Island City, to succeed himself as having been appointed by Mayor Van Wyck. In the Second District, the Democrats nominated William Resquin, of Flushing, the present Deputy Commissioner of Water Supply for Queens Borough.

WOULD DISMISS CADETS FOR "VICIOUS HAZING."

Commandant at West Point Also Suggests Requiring an Oath of Candidates.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—Lieutenant-Colonel O. L. Helm, commandant of cadets at West Point, has made radical suggestions to the War Department in the question of the prevention of hazing at the Military Academy. The President had asked for a report from the commandant on the subject.

Commandant Helm proposes summary dismissal of those guilty of hazing. He would exact an oath from candidates for admission that they will not engage in what Colonel Helm characterizes as "unhallowed, generally obsolete and vicious practice."

The Secretary of War, it is understood, will formulate the suggestions of Colonel Helm as regulations for the academy.

In referring to the measures adopted to prevent hazing Commandant Helm says: "These measures consisted of a large augmentation of the guard and sentinels, posts in the company streets of the camp on the flanks of the latter, over the sinks, etc., with strict orders to the sentinels to carefully observe and report every case of hazing or annoyance of new cadets; the piecing of the tents of the fourth classmen off limits for upper classmen, and those of the latter off limits for the former; the details of company commanders, who were given orders to permit no annoyance or interference with new cadets or fourth classmen and to report all infractions of these orders. These measures resulted in the punishment of a large number of cadets and decrease in hazing, but did not succeed in stamping out the practice."

GENERAL CARR LOSES HIS $1,000 DIAMOND AGAIN.

His Home and That of Judge Winston, at Durham, Visited by Thieves.

Durham, N. C., Oct. 11.—Two daring burglars were committed at the homes of General Julian S. Carr and Judge R. W. Winston, on Tuesday night. At General Carr's the loss will amount to $2,500, including a diamond stud valued at $1,000. This is a registered stone and was stolen during the World's Fair at Chicago, but was afterward recovered by detectives.

At the residence of Judge Winston a large amount of jewelry was taken, but all was found in the back yard, where the burglar had dropped it in his flight.

Socialist Faction Divided.

There are two factions of the Socialist Labor party, and each having filed at Police Headquarters a protest against the other's nominations, the case was heard by the Police Commissioners yesterday. No decision was rendered. The jurors had already agreed their case before the Secretary of State at Albany on Monday. He also reserved decision.

Edward Chapman has been engaged to produce "The Choir Invisible," which was to have been produced at Washington tonight, but will not be seen until Friday evening, the agents work not having been completed.

Among them are Diamantina, who gives interpretations of Sarah Bernhardt, and comes on the Gascones; the Abney Family, Basilia and Arthur, who are on the Gascones; La Solino, who is on the St. Paul, and Jennie Reeves, a sister of Ada Reeves, also on the St. Paul.

STATE SENATOR DRAGGED OUT BY MOB AND SHOT.

Bazile La Place, of Louisiana, Bound and Executed for Revenge.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 11.—Bazile La Place, State Senator and one of the most prominent young men of Louisiana, was last night called from one of his houses in St. John's Parish by a mob of twenty-five masked men, bound, dragged some distance and shot to death. The community was terrorized and the young planter's body lay all night in the mud and rain.

At first the La Place family was unable to assign a cause other than the bitter political struggle now going on in the State. Now it appears that his death was due to a personal grievance. The mob assigned the duty of execution to a relative of a young woman who had accused Mr. La Place. The weapon used was a shot gun; the charge broke the young man's back.

Though only thirty-four years old, Mr. La Place had held several offices since his majority. He was married, and his family is one of the finest in the State. His brother is Dr. La Place, of Philadelphia.

The maid of honor was Miss Laura Lee Otis, daughter of Governor-General E. S. Otis, of the Phillips Islands. McClellan, Russell and John DeKoven Alsop, of this city.

BOTH PARTIES NAME BARRETT.

Quigg Yields to Independents and Labor Men.

O'BRIEN FOR SHERIFF.

Seabury for City Court Also Named to Please Workingmen.

Tammany's County Convention Is Harmonious and Unanimous.

O'GORMAN NOMINATED.

To Run for Justice of the Supreme Court With Barrett.

This ticket was nominated at the Republican County Convention at the Murray Hill Lyceum last evening:

Supreme Court Justices—George C. Barrett and Joseph F. Daly.

For Surrogate—James M. Varnum.

Judge of General Sessions—James A. Blanchard.

Judges of City Court—Samuel Seabury and Herman C. Kadlich.

Sheriff—William J. O'Brien.

The friends of Justice Barrett took their fight for him and compelled Mr. Quigg and the organization to name him for re-election.

The result of the convention was no surprise to those familiar with the various hasty conferences held by the Republican leaders at No. 1 Madison avenue and by delegates to the convention and a committee from the City Club at the office of Wheeler H. Peckham in the afternoon.

In the process of "chambers" it was decided to nominate Justice Barrett and Joseph F. Daly for the Supreme Court, dropping the name of George C. Holt.

To Place the Labor Men.

To make this decision acceptable to the labor men it was determined to retain Samuel Seabury as Judge of the City Court, and William J. O'Brien as Sheriff.

When Simon Stern, Everett F. Wheeler, Paul Fuller, F. A. Hutchinson, and A. E. Crosby, the committee appointed by the City Club to confer with the convention delegates, announced that this arrangement would be satisfactory to them, Mr. Quigg, after a hasty conference with the labor leader, accepted the situation.

In spite of his acquiescence with apparent grace in the ticket that went through last night at the convention, Mr. Quigg could not help expressing what sacrifices he and his associates made in the interests of "harmony."

Mr. Quigg Explains.

As soon as Chairman Eisberg called the meeting to order at 9 o'clock, President Quigg, of the County Committee, proceeded to explain the position he was in. He said to a deker that he had already declared he could not approve. Summed up, it was a declaration that he and his associates had sacrificed everything so that "honest men" might be arrayed in a solid and harmonious phalanx against the wicked Tammany. The report was loudly applauded.

Former Justice William N. Cohen in putting Justice Barrett's name in nomination said that the best proof that he was not capable to either the rank and file or the leaders of Tammany was the fact that he was a gentleman. He then cited a long list of cases where Justice Barrett had dealt Tammany alleged blows "by sending its minions to prison."

"If Tammany Hall nominates Justice Barrett to-night," continued Mr. Cohen, "it will do so simply as a blind and to avoid disastrous defeat."

Miller Makes a Diversion.

The diversion of the evening came when Mr. Cohen finished and placed Justice Barrett in nomination.

"I object! I object!" came in a loud tone from the back of the hall. "I am John Miller and I come from the Seventh and want to explain why I object to Justice Barrett."

As the chairman failed to recognize him, Mr. Miller proceeded down the aisle, pulling his hat and shouting his right to be heard. Arriving at the front row, he plumped into a seat right under the chairman's eye and waited to be recognized.

Loud cries came from all parts of the hall, when Mr. Quigg arose and quelled the commotion with a wave of his hand.

"It appears," he said, in a very gentle voice, "that the gentleman objects to the secretary casting the vote of the convention for Justice Barrett, and asks to be heard. I would appear that he is within his rights on this point."

The convention was polled by districts and Justice Barrett was announced as the nominee by 208 to 2.

The other candidates were chosen unanimously.

It appears that all vacancies caused by death or other cause and another to prepare an address to the voters were appointed, and the convention adjourned.

DYER SERENADED HIS FOE, THE UNDERTAKER.

Not Because He Expected to Be Buried, but Because the Other Was Moving.

Martin Ganger, undertaker, was moving yesterday. Henry Stebbin, the dyer in the next store on West street, Paterson, was happy for that reason. Once Stebbin and Ganger were friends. Another undertaker was called to bury Mrs. Stebbin and they became enemies.

When Stebbin saw his neighbor moving out he decorated the front of his store with flags of his own design and hired two hand-piano men to play in the street. He made them play, "I Don't Care You Never Come Backed on Me," and Ganger tried in vain to make the crowd move on. The grinders followed the last law crowd down the street.

The Third District Democrat organization nominated Thomas H. McCracken for Assembly.

The annual outing of the Martin Engel Association was held at College Point yesterday. About 1,500 members of the association and friends of the East Side leader went along. On returning the excursionists paraded up Clinton street to Grand street and to the club rooms on Lullow street.

The Democrats of the Ninth District of Brooklyn last night nominated Assemblyman J. J. Cain and Michael J. Coffey, who is opposed to the county ticket because it bears the name of J. M. Gray for Register. No resolution indorsing the county ticket was passed.

The Tammany Hall County Convention last night nominated this ticket:

Justices of the Supreme Court—George C. Barrett and James A. O'Gorman.

Judge of General Sessions—Warren W. Foster.

Sheriff—William F. Grell.

The convention held in the Fourteenth street wigwag was a cheerful, peaceful and unanimous gathering. The floor was crowded, and there were throngs in the gallery.

George M. Van Hoesen called the meeting to order, and then gave way to Charles H. Knox, who was made chairman. Richard Croker was on the floor as a delegate, and so was John C. Sheehan.

It was the first convention held by the Democrats under the new election laws, and District Attorney Asa Bird Gardner and his assistant, John E. McClure, found it necessary to coach the chairman and Secretary John T. Oakley on their duties.

Mr. Knox had to take an oath of office to make the proceedings legal and there were other formalities observed.

Points of the Resolutions.

A committee on resolutions reported a long document. It declared for home rule, denounced the force bill and the work of the State Equalization Board in placing too great a load of taxation upon Democratic sections of the State, condemned the franchise tax law enacted by the last Legislature as a sham and an inquiry, and demanded the repeal of the Baines law. It designated the trusts as conspiracies to limit production. On the matter of public franchises it said:

"We favor municipal ownership and municipal control of all municipal franchises. The income and revenue from all public franchises should be placed in the interests of the public. We oppose the granting of any public franchise in perpetuity, and no franchise should be extended to or any new privilege bestowed upon a corporation holding any franchise without adequate compensation to the public."

Making the Nominations.

Having adopted the platform, the convention got down to the business of making nominations. Justice Barrett was named for the Supreme Court bench by E. G. Whitaker, of the Seventh District.

Assistant District Attorney Gordon seconded the nomination of Justice Barrett. He was instructed to cast one ballot for Justice Barrett.

District Attorney Gardner nominated James A. O'Gorman for the Supreme Court, and the nomination was seconded by former Senator Thomas C. Sullivan.

Thomas C. T. Crain named James M. Fitzsimons for Judge of the City Court and William Sulzer nominated for a seat on the same bench Lewis J. Conlan.

Abner C. Thomas was placed in nomination for Surrogate by Isaac Fromme, and Abraham H. Levy named Warren W. Foster for Judge of the Court of General Sessions.

John W. Keller, Commissioner of Charities, named William F. Grell for Sheriff.
