

THEY WERE TO BE ON OR ABOUT NOV. 29.

That is the Date, as Rumored Among the Friends of the Couple Here and in Washington.

The Admiral, Accompanied by Mrs. Hazen, Leave This City and Return to the Capital.

Besieged by Small Boys with Flags Before His Departure, in Their Hope of Being Noticed.

Admiral Dewey and his intended bride, Mrs. Hazen, returned to Washington yesterday.

The Admiral steadily refused, while here, as did Mrs. Hazen, to speak for publication regarding their plans for the wedding or its date, but it is rumored among the friends of both in this city and in Washington that the event will take place on the 29th of this month, or near that date.

Deep interest is felt by the entire country as to just when the wedding will occur, but even modistes, florists and others who are making the wedding preparations declare that thus far nothing but general hints have been given to them. They do not deny, however, that all preparations could readily be completed by November 29.

That date is also understood to be one that would not conflict with the plans of Cardinal Gibbons, who is expected to perform the ceremony.

The feature of yesterday at the Cambridge, where they have been stopping, was the great number of nurses and little boys who had called in the hope of seeing the Admiral, and in the stronger hope that the Admiral would take notice of the children. This was owing to the account in yesterday's Journal of the Admiral's pleasant meeting with little boys carrying an admiral's flag on Fifth avenue on Monday. Fond mamma no sooner read the story than they had their youngsters dressed in their best and sent off, in charge of their nurses, to the Admiral's Hotel.

They Carried Flags in Vain. Many of the little chaps carried flags, and several, like the boy that the Admiral had met on the street, carried miniature admiral's flags. But the Admiral would see none of them, in spite of variously worded messages that the clerk was asked to send to his room. Two or three little fellows were waiting sadly, when the Admiral finally appeared, but he passed by them without looking at them.

Admiral Dewey arose at 7:30, breakfasted in his room, and then summoned his aide to pack his belongings. He sent word to the office that he would receive no callers.

At 8 o'clock he joined Mrs. Hazen, her mother, Mrs. McLean, and her sister, Mrs. Ludlow, and the four chatted together till notified that their carriages were at the door.

Passed Out Through Hotel Office. At 9:25 they went down together on the elevator and walked quickly through the hotel office to the street. Two Pennsylvania Railroad cabs were drawn up at the curb, Mrs. Hazen and the admiral stepped into the first, Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Ludlow into the second.

Down Fifth avenue through the Dewey Arch, to Twenty-third street, and thence to the Twenty-third street ferry the party were driven, where they boarded a Pennsylvania ferry boat for Jersey City.

Several persons in the railway station recognized the Admiral, and there was a show of enthusiasm. The party stepped quickly to a drawing room car, in which a section had been reserved, and at 10:10 the train pulled out on the way to Washington.

VICE-PRESIDENT HOBART IS MUCH STRONGER.

President Hobart was improved yesterday, and to all appearances it was the first genuine improvement there has been since his attack a week ago.

The diet of the Vice-President for more than a week has been confined to grape juice and brandy and milk in quantities so small that there was little hope that it would preserve his vitality, much less increase it. But yesterday a little chicken broth was added, and Mr. Hobart surprised the doctors by being able to take it. He was stronger than for a week past, and set up in his bed during a greater part of the day.

Colonel William Barbour, of New York, a personal friend of Mr. Hobart, was the only person permitted to see him yesterday. General Griggs also called at the house. In the afternoon a telegram was received from President McKinley, asking as to his health.

When Mr. Hobart awoke yesterday he was told that it was election day. He expressed the kindest regard that he was not able to go to the polls. He asked his physician if in the medical man's opinion he could not be taken to the polls, but the doctor replied in the negative.

VALE'S HEAD ON FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

"Remuneration, Not Pauperization," He Says, Should Be the Principle.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 7.—President Hadley, of Yale, plans to revolutionize the system of awarding scholarships at Yale. He has embodied his scheme for reform in the following address:

"Aid in education, if given without exacting a corresponding return, becomes demoralizing. It is aided by the student as he goes, it has just the opposite effect. This holds good of graduate scholarships and fellowships no less than of undergraduates.

"All scholarship aid, beyond the tuition for graduates, should be distinctly in the nature of a prize for really distinguished work, or a payment for services rendered. I am aware that there are great practical obstacles which oppose the carrying out of this view, and I do not feel sure as to how quickly Yale will be in a position to put it into effect; but that it is a desirable ideal and goal there appears to be no doubt whatever. Remuneration rather than pauperization should be the principle underlying such aid."

The members of the Yale Divinity School are the first to act on the subject. At a mass meeting a resolution was first proposed in the meeting binding each man to reimburse the Divinity School unless disease or death prevented.

This met with serious objections, however, and the general resolution was adopted. Its text is as follows: "Be it resolved, That we, as members of the Yale Divinity School, would heartily welcome any change in the distribution of funds which would be in line with the recent utterances of President Hadley."

GOFF TO PROBE IN SNUG HARBOR.

The Board of Trustees of Snug Harbor met again yesterday at its headquarters, No. 31 Nassau street. The board's first act was to pass resolutions to the effect that as the board had not undertaken an investigation of the charges against Governor Daniel DeLahanty it would leave the work to a committee.

This decision was arrived at, the board explained, because there were many witnesses to be heard, and the board, as a whole, could not possibly take the trouble or spare the time to hear it all at such times as would lead to a prompt conduct of the investigation.

The committee appointed was Recorder Goff, Captain Austin Jayne and the Rev. Dr. Duffield. The board declared that all employees of the corporation must attend the sessions of the committee when called upon. Its counsel, Mr. DeLahanty, would also be present.

While the board was comfortably discussing the charges against Governor DeLahanty and incidentally the political outlook, the eight nurses summoned from the home cooled their heels on the marble tiles outside. They had been told to be there at half past two o'clock, and at half past five they had not been called.

They were all hungry and tired. Several had come over without sleep after a night's work, and on returning to the home would have to go on watch again without rest. They sent in word to the committee to this effect, and the reply came back, "Wait."

"I worked from 8 this morning till 2 this afternoon and then hurried here," said one nurse. "When I go back I go on duty at 10 and remain until 6 in the morning. Then I may sleep, but if I am not up again at 11 I lose my dinner."

"At the home we have the poorest sort of food, and little of it. The consideration we have received here to-day is a fine sample of the treatment we get at the home." The committee adjourned until later in the week, without hearing any new witnesses.

All the comforts of a well equipped home enjoyed en route.

DAUGHTER SNUBS FATHER IN COURT.

Contest Over Leland Stanford's Millions Is Dramatic.

A FAMILY DIVIDED.

Asa P. Stanford Trying to Break His Son's Will --- The Case Still On.

There was a dramatic scene in the Orphans' Court in Newark yesterday during the hearing in the Stanford contested will case.

Asa P. Stanford, a venerable gentleman, who is the appellant in the case, after testifying left the witness chair and stepped to the opposite side of the court room where his daughter, Mary E. Stanford, was sitting with her sister-in-law, who is the beneficiary of the will which the old man is contesting.

"How do you do?" said Mr. Stanford to his daughter. "Don't speak to me!" said Miss Stanford, raising her hands as if to ward him away. The old man appeared as if stunned for a moment. Then turned and walked slowly to a seat in the empty jury box. When he had settled himself in a chair he buried his head in his hands and wept. Between his sobs he was heard to exclaim: "Oh, my daughter, and my son, too, have turned against me for this miserable woman!"

While he was sobbing Miss Stanford, the daughter who had rebuffed him, was called to the stand. She testified to the finding of the portion of the will in contest, amounting to over $100,000, was left by the Senator to his nephew, Philip W. Stanford, who died in this city on June 1, 1888. According to the will, the portion of the estate was to be divided in three equal parts, one to be paid to the widow, one to the daughter, and one to the son. The will was probated in time and Mrs. Stanford qualified as administratrix.

Later Asa P. Stanford, father-in-law of Mrs. Stanford, filed an appeal from the probate of the will on the ground that he had knowledge of a subsequent will in which he was made a beneficiary to about one-third of the estate. At a previous hearing two witnesses testified that they had witnessed the second will, but nobody knows what became of it.

At the hearing yesterday Edward Laidlaw testified that he entered the vault of the Mercantile Safe Deposit Company with Mrs. Stanford and her counsel, Louis A. Boorman, and saw the will which was subsequently probated, taken from the box. He saw no other will. On cross-examination he could not swear positively whether Mrs. Stanford came directly from the street or from another room in the building.

Stanford, the contestant, was the next witness called, and after he had admitted writing certain letters produced in court he was excused. It was then that the scene described above took place. The case was not concluded.

NEW YORKERS' BID TO BUILD WAR SHIPS RAISES QUESTION.

Townsend & Downey, It is Said, Have No Plant—Investigation to Be Made.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 7.—Townsend & Downey, of New York, made one of the lowest bids for the building of two of the six cruisers of the Denver class. Their ability to construct these vessels is to be the subject of an investigation by the Navy Department. It is alleged that this firm has no plant and is depending upon the acceptance of their bid to start a new ship yard, to be thus established through governmental aid.

The firm, it is stated, can provide ample facilities for the construction of the hull, although the work on the machinery equipment will be sublet. This is not a new thing in naval construction. A representative of Townsend & Downey says the firm has deposited its certified check for $50,000, and stands ready to fulfill all the requirements of the contract.

F. W. Jorntemon is Missing. Frederick W. Jorntemon, son of former Township Committeeman Charles E. Jorntemon, of No. 110 Washington street, East Orange, N. J., has been missing since Sunday. He was last seen about 10 o'clock on that night near Park avenue and Eighth street. There is no trace of him.

MORMON PLOT FOR ROBERTS.

For the Third Time Streper Delays Investigation of Charges Against the Polygamist in the Hope That They Will Be Outlawed.

In spite of his official oath to do his whole duty he has, like so many other Mormon officeholders here, given to his Church instead of to his office the higher allegiance. Action will be taken at once, however, to compel the County Attorney to move in the Roberts case.

Streper's plan is to delay action until the information for unlawful cohabitation, based on the birth of twins to Roberts's second wife, might be outlawed.

THE JOURNAL'S ANTI-POLYGAMY PETITION.

Please sign this and secure as many other signatures as possible and attach and send them to the Journal. The time has arrived for sharp, quick and decisive action in the great National movement to cast out an avowed polygamist from the halls of Congress. All who believe in protecting the purity of the home should join this movement at once and send in their names for the monster petition to Congress.

To United States House of Representatives: The undersigned earnestly petition you to reject or expel Brigham H. Roberts, Congressman-elect from Utah, and to submit a constitutional amendment disqualifying Polygamists from holding office.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 6.—The Mormon Church leaders are doing their utmost to aid their chief disciple of polygamy, Brigham H. Roberts, in preventing his arrest on a charge which constitutes a felony.

The Mormon County Attorney, W. H. Streper, of Davis County, promised to take up the charge against Roberts tomorrow, but to-night Mr. Owen received the following letter from him: "Circumstances of a public and official nature have arisen unexpectedly which make it absolutely impossible for me to consult with you in regard to the Roberts affair sooner than Saturday, the 11th inst. On that date I will meet you at my office in Court House, Farmington, at 11:30 a. m., when I will take up the Roberts matter, as also the affidavits against John E. Woolfens, John Adams and Joseph Ford. I will not be at the Court House on Wednesday, the 8th inst., as expected."

"W. H. STREPER, JR., County Attorney." This is the third promise made by Mr. Streper in setting a time when he would take the case under consideration.

Flammer Marries Two Couples.

Magistrate Flammer, in the Jefferson Market Court, found time to marry two couples yesterday. The first were Thomas J. Barry, of No. 27 North Ninth street, Philadelphia, and Lavinia Yeager, of No. 1008 Parish street, the same city. The second couple were Adolph Levy and Lilly Danziger, of No. 314 East Twelfth street.

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless It is Digested. Nearly every one will admit that as a nation we eat too much meat and too little of vegetables and the grains. For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact every one engaged in sedentary or indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe outdoor manual labor can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health. As a general rule, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of food eaten.

But many of the most nutritious foods are difficult of digestion and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak to assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the relaxed digestive organs, and several years' experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective digestive and a remedy which may be taken daily with the best results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, pepsin, diastase, and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloric acid.

People who make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to have perfect digestion, which means perfect health.

There is no danger of forming an injurious habit, as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digestives; cocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a fifty-cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and after a week's use note the improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.
