A VERY YOUNG MAN.

Moody and Sanky Have Much to Do with His Acceptance.

London, Nov. 25.—The Rev. D. Campbell Morgan, who has had under consideration for some time...

Dr. Morgan was first approached on the subject on the eve of his departure from New York.

Dr. Morgan is keenly interested in prophetic study. His London home is at Muswell Hill, a suburb which seems an immense distance from everywhere...

Dr. Morgan will succeed the late Dr. John Hall as pastor of the wealthiest and most influential Presbyterian church organization in the United States.

When he first left London for the watering place the rumormongers in England's capital said he and his wife had quarrelled and separated.

The latter induced him to visit Northfield. There he is over three hundred years old. It has a membership of 1,500, half of which has been recruited during Dr. Morgan's three years' pastorate.

Dr. Morgan thus recently described his theology: "I occupy a most conservative and orthodox position with regard to the Bible.

Through translators and copyists we have lost much I also believe, and that there is room for much scholarly and devout criticism I admit. I hold that to be the true basis of criticism, and when it passes beyond and questions the correctness of the statements I at once feel that it approaches dangerous ground."

Mrs. Langtry's Husband on His Racing Motor-Tricycle.

Hugo Gerald de Bathe—the latest spouse of the Jersey Lily, has lately been taking the cure at Aix, and devoting himself, in addition, to his favorite pastime of motor cycling.

When he first left London for the watering place the rumormongers in England's capital said he and his wife had quarrelled and separated.

The anger which Hugo's marriage to Mrs. Langtry aroused in his father, the crusty old General Sir Henry Percival de Bathe, has not abated, but the young man seems undisturbed by his loss of a fortune.

Mr. Baldwin was born on November 28, and has spent all his life in Essex County, N. J., principally in Orange, until a few years ago, when he moved to Newark.

Mr. Baldwin is an active physically as the average man of sixty-five, but mentally he is not so elastic, although for events that occurred in the distant past his memory is clear.

In his boyhood he attended school in the old "white school house" on the site of the present Brick Church, in Orange.

About 1836 he started with his brother, in-law, Jabez Pierson, in the firm name of Baldwin & Pierson, a country store in Main street, in what is now East Orange.

Extensive preparations are being made by the relatives and friends of Caleb Baldwin to celebrate his one hundredth birthday anniversary on Tuesday next.

PUPILS' IGNORANCE DUE TO TEACHERS.

Professor Chubb Says Most of the Latter Are Incompetent.

DON'T KNOW ENGLISH.

Decline of the Family Reading Circle Is Also Held Responsible.

The League for Political Education, at No. 19 West Forty-fourth street, yesterday heard an address by Professor Percival Chubb, of the school of the Society for Ethical Culture, on "Illiteracy in Our Schools, Causes and Cures."

In opening, Professor Chubb attacked the idea that education is a prevention of crime. "Mere intellectual education," he said, "is no insurance against crime."

"Christianity, indeed, has always had rather a suspicious attitude toward learning. It has promised its great rewards not to the learned, but to the pure in heart, to those who emotionally are on the right track."

It is culture of the whole mind and heart which is required to reduce its criminal statistics. The study of English speech and literature, which he declared to be the most important branch, and yet the most poorly taught, in schools, he continued:

"I think this criticism will hold against the private as well as against the public schools. The reason for the poor teaching of English is not hard to find. The teacher of Latin, or almost any other branch, finds a virgin soil, but the teacher of English finds a host of foes that he must dislodge first of all."

It is rare, indeed, to find a teacher in the primary schools who knows how to teach English. In studying some perfect little poem, for instance, the children are made to make it in fragments, stumbling over every line, and becoming disgusted with the very name of literature.

The teacher should, first, read it to them, and she should know how to read. The voice is the most potent instrument of human intercourse, and yet ordinarily a teacher will not be selected, no matter how harsh her voice may be.

Professor Chubb believes there has been a decline in the general appreciation of clear, simple English, owing to the general discontinuance of the family reading circle.

ORATORIO SOCIETY WILL SING BACH'S B MINOR MASS.

This, with "The Messiah," Will Make Up This Season's Work for Mr. Damrosch's Organization.

The musical director of the Oratorio Society has selected Handel's "Messiah" and Bach's great mass in B minor as the two works upon which he and his forces are to concentrate their efforts this season.

By thus limiting the number of concerts it will be possible to rehearse the Bach mass adequately. The work has not previously been brought out in New York.

In deciding to give "The Messiah" and the B minor mass, Mr. Damrosch had in mind the special value of bringing forward these masterpieces for purposes of comparison. The estimate of Bach's biographer, Spitta, that "the real companion work of the Messiah" can only be the B minor mass, is one that will be indorsed by the majority of students of music.

The Oratorio's chorus has lately been reorganized, and those who desire to enter its ranks should apply for the remaining vacancies without delay.

The performance of "The Messiah" will take place on December 30 in Carnegie Hall, in the general appreciation of clear, simple English, owing to the general discontinuance of the family reading circle.

1,141 VESSELS LOST AT SEA LAST YEAR. CENTURY OLD ON NEXT TUESDAY.

Great Britain the Smallest Percentage, Sweden the Greatest. Caleb Baldwin Will Celebrate Then His 100th Birthday.

The losses at sea sustained by the merchant-service of the world in the last year set forth in a report prepared by the British Government, copies of which have been received here.

Great Britain, with more than 12,000,000 tons afloat, has the lowest percentage of losses. Twenty-four steamers sailed from various ports last year and have never been heard from, and seventy-nine sailing vessels cleared and never reached their destination, both classes representing a total tonnage of 72,773.

In addition, ninety-six ships, representing eighty-five sailing craft and eleven steamers, had to be abandoned at sea.

As a result of all the losses the gross tonnage in the mercantile marine of the world is shown to be 1,141 vessels of 820,725 tons, excluding vessels of less than 100 tons. This represents the tonnage of vessels which have met a peaceful end by being "broken up" or condemned. The latter usually aggregate about one-fifth of the total. The average of loss exceeds the average of the preceding seven years by twenty-five vessels of 106,706 tons.

Great Britain's rate of loss is 2.23 per cent, the next on the list being Germany, with 2.33 per cent.

Germany and the United States are now in a neck-and-neck race as regards the total number of vessels owned, the latter having 2,113,677 tons and the former 2,113,081 tons.

Austria-Hungary is third in point of tonnage, with 1,818,000 tons, then comes Russia, with 3,633 per cent, and the United States, with 4.14 per cent. The other nations are in the following order: Italy, 4.34 per cent; France, 4.38; Holland, 4.92; Spain, 5.01; Norway, 5.55; and Sweden, 5.66.

The figures for Norway and Sweden are regarded as too low, especially as the rate for sailing ships is 7.58 and 9.65 per cent, respectively. This is partly explained by the great number of ships broken up or condemned, but there can be no doubt that the larger rate is also due to the violent end of many ships by wrecks.

The figures seem to give support to the view that the British Government should insist upon more seaworthy conditions for ships flying the Norwegian flag when leaving British ports.

Of the total number of vessels lost in the year—1,141—824 tons were sailing craft, of 463,241 tons, were steamers, while 810 vessels, of 337,484 tons, were sailing craft. Wrecks account for the loss of 324 vessels, of 256,503 tons, 387 sailing vessels and 137 steamers.

Ninety vessels, of 73,204 tons, were lost in collision, 18 being steamers and 42 sailing vessels, but the average size of the vessel was double that of the latter. Ninety-six vessels, of 63,732 tons, including 85 sailing ships, had to be abandoned at sea.

RIDICULOUS PRICES FOR DRUCE BONDS.

About One Hundred Dollars Was Realized at Auction for the Entire Lot.

London, Nov. 25.—A number of the bonds issued by Mrs. Druce, the claimant on behalf of her son Sydney to the title and estates of the dukedom of Portland, were yesterday offered for sale at the Mart, Tokenhouse Yard. The bonds offered were of two denominations, £50 and £100.

A large number of people were present, most of them being attracted by the possibilities of amusement which the sale offered. Mrs. Druce attended the sale room and followed the proceedings carefully.

The first lot, of four bonds, each of a face value of £100, was bought for the sum of £4; the next lot, of a value of £200, realizing only £1.

These prices created much merriment, which increased when lots of £50 bonds were knocked down at 1s. per bond. The auctioneer scoldingly told non-buyers present that they would soon be sorry that they had not availed themselves of their opportunities.

Other lots realized 9d. each, the whole sale bringing in a little more than £20 to the fund for ousting the Duke of Portland from his heritage.
