

FRENCH CHATEAU, BEHIND THE BRITISH LINES IN FRANCE WHICH HAS BEEN PLACED AT THE DISPOSAL OF AMERICAN MISSIONS AND OTHER AMERICAN OFFICIAL VISITORS.

SIDE VIEW, WITH A GLEAM OF THE MOAT, OF THE CHATEAU WHICH HAS BECOME THE HOME OF AMERICAN OFFICIAL VISITORS IN FRANCE WHO HAVE BUSINESS BEHIND THE BRITISH LINES.

FATHER BERNARD VAUGHAN, Making a Speech from the Top of a British Tank in Trafalgar Square in Behalf of the $5,000,000 Tank Bonds.

LOOKING TOWARD THE AMERICAN VISITORS' CHATEAU, AS SEEN THROUGH A VISTA OF ANCIENT TREES.

FRENCH ENGINEERS, UNDER GERMAN MACHINE GUN FIRE, DASHING FORWARD TO NEW TASKS OVER A PONTOON BRIDGE JUST COMPLETED BY THEM IN THE CHEMIN DES DAMES SECTOR. Two of the Men, Who Can Be Seen Near the Right Centre, Have Already Fallen Wounded, and the Photographer Who Took the Picture Barely Escaped Being Shot.

MISS CAROLINE STEVENS, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stevens, of the "Manor House," Castle Point, Hoboken, N. J., Driving a Red Cross Motor Car in Paris. Miss Stevens Returned Home for the Christmas Holidays.

"MIKE" POUNDS, Son of the Brooklyn Borough President, with the Dartmouth Squad of American Ambulance Drivers in France, Reading a Letter from Home. (International Film Service.)

"THE DARTMOUTH FUSILIERS," AS THIS SQUAD OF AMERICAN AMBULANCE DRIVERS, COMPOSED OF DARTMOUTH STUDENTS, IS KNOWN IN FRANCE. In the Group, at the Right, are: "Stan" Jones, "Tom" Campbell, "Dave" Garrett, nicknamed "General Pershing"; "Ernie" Earley, called "Little Knicknacks," and "Mike" Pounds, Son of the Borough President of Brooklyn. (International Film Service.)

A NEW PARIS COSTUME FOR WINTER APPEARS IN THE BOIS, Consisting of a Coat in Green Cloth with Pinafore and Cuffs of Persian Lamb, and an Exaggerated Collar of Same Fur. (International Film Service.)

(Photos © Underwood & Underwood.)

(International Film Service.)

(International Film Service.)

(International Film Service.)