

A HIGHLAND BATTALION, WITH BAGPIPE AND DANCE, MAKING MERRY BEHIND THE BRITISH LINES IN FRANCE.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)

HERE THEY ARE AT LAST:
AMERICAN SOLDIERS
IN REAL FRONT-LINE

THE NEW FRENCH HELMET WITH FACE-PROTECTING VISOR WHICH CAN BE LIFTED WHEN NOT IN USE. It is Now Being Extensively Used by the Belgians.
(International Film Service.)

BRITISH EXPERT MECHANICS ENGAGED IN REHABILITATING DAMAGED BATTLE AND BOMBING PLANES WHICH ARE DRIVEN BY THE NEW AND POWERFUL FOUR-BLADE PROPELLERS.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)

AN AMERICAN ADVANCE POST ON THE ACTUAL FIGHTING FRONT AT THE GATE TO LORRAINE. He is Ready to Fire a Warning Signal Rocket at the Instant a German Attack Begins.
(© Committee on Public Information.)

TRENCHES ON THE LORRAINE SECTOR. The Germans Are Only a Few Feet Away, and the Americans Appear to be Watching Them Keenly.
(© Committee on Public Information.)

DOG USED BY THE BRITISH FOR CARRYING MESSAGES ALONG FRONT-LINE TRENCHES ABOUT TO LEAVE WITH A DISPATCH. He is Employed for This Purpose Alone, is Known by Name Only to His Keeper, and is Never Petted.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)

BRITISH SEAPLANE PILOT, ON SCOUT DUTY OVER THE SUBMARINE ZONE, RELEASING A CARRIER PIGEON WITH A MESSAGE FOR HIS HEADQUARTERS IN PORT.
(© Underwood & Underwood.)