How I keep his little woolens soft and sweet

"BEFORE my baby came, the trained nurse had cautioned me: 'Have all the tiny garments of the best quality and have only as many of each as you really need to keep your baby fresh and sweet. That is the actually important thing. Launder his things constantly. Never let one little garment stay soiled from one day to the next.'"

"From the very first I used Lux for them. It was so easy to whip the pure delicate Lux flakes into rich suds—so simple to squeeze the suds through the little garments—then take them out absolutely sweet and clean and fresh."

"The little woolens never shrunk a thread—never stiffened or grew thick—not after repeated washings. And his precious little dresses were always as dainty and fresh as new."

See for yourself how the Lux way of washing without rubbing keeps your baby's woolens soft and unshrunk. Your grocer, druggist or department store has Lux—Lever Bros. Co. Cambridge, Mass.

How to wash babies' woolens

Use two tablespoonfuls of Lux to a gallon of water. Dissolve the Lux flakes in boiling or very hot water, and whisk into a thick lather. Put the little garments in and let them soak until the water has cooled enough for the hands to bear with comfort. Squeeze the suds through the garments. Do not rub. Rinse three times in clear water, hot as the water you washed the garments in; dissolve a little Lux in the last rinsing water, but do not beat into a lather.

This leaves the woolens softer and fluffier. Squeeze the water out. Do not twist. Dry in the shade, and press with a warm iron, never a hot one. A damp piece of cheese-cloth will prevent the iron from scorching or yellowing the garments.

Wash colored woolens in lukewarm suds, and do not soak.
