

WORTH COMES OUT FOR MORTON.

The Kings County Republican Leader Has Made His Peace with Platt.

Claims That His Utterances in Regard to McKinley Have Been Misconstrued.

THE EFFECT OF THE RAINES LAW.

He Says It Will Hurt the Party in the Metropolitan District More Than Its Promoters Would Think Possible.

Jacob Worth has made his peace with Platt. The Kings County leader now asserts there never was anything unpleasant in his relations with the Toga boss.

Worth, in an interview yesterday, spoke of his position in State and local politics and of the Raines bill.

PLATT IS STATE LEADER.

"I recognize Mr. Platt as leader of the party in the State. I have been connected with the party in this county for thirty years, and have not in all that time known a leader who has worked so hard and received less consideration than Mr. Platt.

"I took an active part in the reorganization, and have stood by Mr. Platt ever since. If it were not for his leadership the anti-consolidation organizations would go into conventional without a head.

"Mr. Platt has placed himself in a position where he can deal up any differences that may arise. Brooklyn is possibly the only exception to this rule. Neither Mr. Platt nor any other State leader has taken much notice in Brooklyn Republicans, because the disappointed politicians from all the other counties have flocked to it.

MORTON TO BE SUPPORTED.

"Kings County, I think, will support Morton. If he is alive when the convention opens in New York, I think it is possible to secure that Governor Morton cannot by any possibility be nominated, our friends will, I think, swing with the State machine.

"I fear it may hurt the party some. I don't expect it will hurt the party some. I don't expect it will hurt the party some.

A Woman's Plucky Action.

Mrs. F. L. Backus, wife of the District Attorney of Kings County, has received congratulatory messages for her plucky action on the Ocean Parkway Tuesday.

WURSTER WELL AGAIN.

Brooklyn's Mayor Appears at the City Hall and Arranges for a Hearing on the Greater New York.

Mayor Wurster, of Brooklyn, who was forty-six years old yesterday, celebrated the event by shaking of the grip, which confined him to his house for several days, and appearing at the City Hall.

The hearing will be held in the Aldermanic Chamber, beginning at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

TOO MUCH BRIC-A-BRAC.

Women Station Agents on the "L" Ordered to Remove All Decorations from Their Offices.

Every once in awhile the feminine propensity for tying ribbons to everything in sight asserts itself among the young women employed as station agents on the Brooklyn Elevated Railroad.

There has just been a little affair of this kind. An order, dated March 27, has been posted up in the different stations, requiring the restoration of all offices to their original condition.

It is said that some of the men who have charge of the stations have been complaining that the little knick-knacks of their fair co-workers filled up all the room.

WHY BROOKLYN MEN SMILE.

It is Possible That the Barber Shops May Be Opened on Sundays.

The Brooklyn man with the bunch of whiskers who scowled yesterday in the shadow of the Raines bill smiles to-day in the sunshine of the prospect of getting shaved on Sunday.

The news that the Assembly had adopted amendments to the Sunday Barber Shop law, which would open barber shops until 4 a. m. on Sunday all over the State and until 1 p. m. in New York, Brooklyn and Buffalo, was particularly pleasing to Brooklynites, who have felt the rigor of the old law deeply.

Recently the barbers have been conducting their business in a way that has won them the welcome relief from the liability to arrest.

The barbers say the law has done them a great deal of injury. They have been compelled to refuse patronage many times and many of their customers have learned to shave themselves. Others got shaved in New York.

"I think nearly all the Brooklyn men in the trade favor the new amendment," said R. Langens, of Clark and Fulton streets, one of Brooklyn's representative barbers, last night.

SLUMBERED ON HIS POST.

Policeman Donohue Woke Up to Find the Commissioner Standing Over Him.

His Horse Outside, Blouse and Helmet Thrown Aside and Two Chairs for a Bed.

SHOULD HAVE BEEN ON PATROL.

Superintendent McKelvey, Who Was Also Present, Took Away His Shield and Sent Him Back to His Station House Under Arrest.

Police Commissioner Welles and Superintendent McKelvey, of Brooklyn, went out house hunting yesterday. They drove out to Parkville to find a building which could be rented for a new sub-product station house.

The officials examined a house in Foster avenue, which bore all the signs of having been untenanted for months. While looking around they ran across a man stretched out on two chairs, sound asleep. Back of the house was a horse with a saddle of the mounted squad of the police.

Superintendent McKelvey removed the police shield and put it in his pocket. The sleeping man was then aroused. He did not recognize Mr. Welles, who asked him where he belonged. He said that he was attached to the 14th Precinct.

No Money Yet for Newtown Creek.

Albany, N. Y., April 1.—The brief but interesting discussion of the Newtown Creek legislation in the Senate yesterday was marred by a first-class waterway, sought to be improved at once.

In asking for a further hearing on the bill, Senator Kohler intimated that private property would be chiefly benefited by the improvement.

A long report was received from the committee that was appointed last session to investigate the Charles Department of Kings County. The matter was long ago discontinued by the newspapers, but the findings and recommendations are worth repeating.

But little legislation referring strictly to Brooklyn was acted on during the session. Senator Way introduced a bill providing $40,000 for the Teachers' Training School.

Important Decision Filed. Incorporated Villages Cannot Vote on Town Highway Appropriations.

Riverhead, L. I., April 1.—An important decision has been rendered by Justice William T. Smith, of the Supreme Court, which will affect every village in the State incorporated under the General Village Law, chapter 291, laws of 1870.

The decision of Judge Smith is the result of an attempt on the part of William H. Pierson, the Republican candidate for Highway Commissioner of the town of Southampton, to compel the town officials to place his name upon the general ballot for the entire town.

THE EQUESTRIAN STATUE OF GENERAL U. S. GRANT.

This picture of the Grant statue, the work of William Oadway Partridge, for the Union League Club of Brooklyn, was taken at the sculptor's studio at Milton, Mass., especially for the New York Journal.

The statue, cast at Chicopee, Mass., will be shipped to Brooklyn, within a few days. It will be mounted on a handsome pedestal in front of the Union League Club, and being Grant's birthday, there will be a big parade, in which the regular army and National Guard will participate.

H STARTLED GAY THEATREGOERS.

Unknown Woman Expired in a De Kalb Avenue Car in Brooklyn.

Said She Wanted to Get Off at Carleton Avenue, but Did Not Live to Reach There.

NO OTHER CLEW TO HER IDENTITY.

Was About Fifty-five Years of Age, Was Well Dressed and Had Evidently Been Visiting Friends Uptown.

A tall, well-built woman, about fifty-five years old, halled car No. 204 of the De Kalb avenue line on De Kalb avenue between Throop and Summer avenues, Brooklyn, about 7:30 o'clock last evening.

After paying her fare, she requested the conductor to let her off at Carleton avenue. The car was well filled with theatre-goers. As it neared Ryerson street the woman grew pale. She closed her eyes and her head fell back.

The conductor and two passengers ran to the side of the woman and a window was raised to give her air, but she died just as the car reached Washington avenue. The car was stopped and an ambulance summoned from the Cumberland Street Hospital.

The woman was about fifty-five years old, five feet, seven inches in height and weighed about one hundred and sixty pounds. She was attired in a black cloth dress, black waist and black cloth cape, with a cravat, over which she had a small brown shawl. A crane bonnet covered her hair, which was brown.

A few weeks ago a New York woman passed away in the same manner on a Fifth avenue car, near Fulton ferry, Brooklyn.

TRUE LOVE CONQUERED.

Despite All Manner of Opposition from Their Parents, Ellsworth and Drewcilla Are to Marry.

East Rockaway, L. I., April 1.—If it be true that the path of true love is always full of thorns the marriage of pretty Drewcilla Abrams, of this place, to Ellsworth Langdon on Sunday ought to be a happy one indeed.

Now the old folks are agreed that the couple cannot live apart and the Easter chimes will have a double meaning for the young lovers.

HORSE SHIED AT A TROLLEY.

Henry Bauer Severely Hurt in an Accident at New Brunswick.

New Brunswick, N. J., April 1.—Henry Bauer, who lives on a farm on the Franklin Park road, near Three Mile Run, met with an almost fatal accident in a runaway on Burnet street, last evening at 8:15 o'clock.

Mr. Bauer's horse became frightened at something on lower Burnet street, and dashed away, getting beyond his control. He was in a two-wheeled riding rig.

A trolley car came down Burnet street, on its way to the steamboat dock, just about the time the horse dashed by Washington avenue. The horse was on the left side of the track, and when he saw the lighted car coming shied out of its way.

Just as the trolley came along in another moment and hit the vehicle. The motorman had brought his car almost to a standstill, but the impact was enough to slightly tilt the front of the trolley car. At the same time the signboard on the front was knocked off.

Mr. Bauer was knocked up bleeding and almost unconscious. In being thrown from his sulkey he had fallen heavily on the back of his head, near the spinal column. Bauer was taken to the hospital. There it was found that he had sustained a fracture of the base of the skull and that one eye had almost been gouged out. His chances for recovery are even.

MOODY IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

His Advent the Occasion of a Great Religious Awakening.

New Brunswick, N. J., April 1.—Hundreds of people were unable to gain admission to the First Reformed Church this afternoon and evening at the special evangelical services conducted by the Rev. Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist.

Mr. Moody has been brought to New Brunswick to awaken the church-going people and to break the ice of a winter hibernation by his coming. Many business men closed their stores early this evening to attend the services. Hundreds of homes were lit at the doors of the church for two hours in a slight rain in their anxiety to get seats.

Mr. Moody has not been in New Brunswick in ten years, and the last time he visited here there was a great religious revival.
