

TWO COFFINS BORNE OUT.

A Broken-Hearted Mother Followed to the Grave the Daughter She Idolized.

The Larsen Family Crossed the Sea, Hoping to Find Prosperity in This Country.

A SHORT YEAR OF HAPPINESS.

Then Beda, Who Had Prepared a Home on This Side of the Atlantic, Died, and Her Mother's Life-Thread Was Broken.

A few years ago, in a Swedish village near Stockholm, there lived a family by the name of Larsen. The mother was a widow.

The times were hard in Sweden then. Mrs. Larsen was delicate, and Beda, although she worked hard, was unable to make both ends meet.

The girl's companions, one after another, crossed the ocean in a search for the end of the rainbow and the gold hidden there.

Finally the two bread-winners of the Larsen home gave up the struggle in their native land. It was too dreary, too hopeless.

The brother and sister began to buy furniture, and soon they had enough to start a little home.

The mother was heart-broken. When on Tuesday the funeral services were conducted in the front room she was too ill to leave her bed.

They carried the coffin into their sleeping apartment and laid beside her. The old woman raised her head and gazed a minute at the dead, white face, framed in the pillow of flowers.

Then she sank back with a little choking cry. They carried the coffin out of the house and a few carriages followed to the grave.

Mrs. Larsen never recovered her strength. On Wednesday she closed her eyes, and her spirit went to join that of her daughter in the grave in which her daughter lies was opened and was laid at rest by Beda's side.

IS BUNTE A BIGAMIST?

William L. Bunte, a shoe cutter, was arrested yesterday morning and arraigned in the Lee Avenue Police Court, Williamsburg, charged with bigamy.

Bunte's second wife, an attractive young woman, who is now living with relatives at No. 27 Hope street.

According to Mrs. Bunte's affidavit she was married on August 21, 1890, by the Rev. Francis Snyder, of No. 100 Second avenue, New York.

In January last she learned, she says, that her husband had another wife living. He had married wife No. 1 in 1889. Mrs. Bunte was not long in finding that Bunte had never been divorced, as he claimed.

From his first wife, Bunte then disappeared. Mrs. Bunte laid the facts before Justice Goetting, who issued a warrant for Officer Mayer to find a friend of Bunte and get him to write to the fugitive and try to induce him to return to Brooklyn.

Bunte wrote back that he didn't intend to return to Brooklyn just then.

A week ago a shoe firm in Brooklyn sent Bunte a postal card offering him employment. Bunte accepted the position, and arrived in Williamsburg early yesterday morning.

He started at once for the police court, and upon his arrival word was sent to Officer Mayer, who went to the factory and arrested him. Bunte was taken at once to court, and when arraigned before Justice Goetting he declared that he was a bigamist, and declared that he was divorced at the time he married the complainant. Bunte also told the Court that the complainant had been his third wife, his second wife being Anne Coyle. He is forty-one years of age.

MEN CANNOT ATTEND.

banquet of the Society of Old Brooklynites Will Not Be Graced by Their Presence This Year.

Mrs. Helen Hegman Dean, who is one hundred and two years old, was elected a member of the Society of Old Brooklynites Thursday night.

The society is to have a banquet next Wednesday. Ex-Mayor Daniel D. Whitney, who recently received a letter of introduction, pleaded for the women, but Secretary Haynes said no arrangements had been made for them.

Patrolman Thomas Danise Boone, the Neuter of the Brooklyn Police Department, said there ought to have been a display of the women would put the boys on their good behavior.

"That's so," exclaimed ex-Congressman John J. Clancy.

A VERY YOUNG OFFENDER.

Peter Kehoe, Aged 17, Charged with Carrying Burglar's Tools.

Peter Kehoe, seventeen years old, of No. 208 North Eighth street, Williamsburg, was held for trial yesterday in the Lee Avenue Police Court on a charge of carrying burglar's tools.

Kehoe was arrested Thursday evening by Policeman O'Connor, of the Bedford Avenue Station, after having tried the basement doors of the private houses No. 22 North Second street, No. 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 400.

At the station house a die shaped like a Jimmy was found on him. The police say Kehoe was recently released from the Elmira Reformatory, where he had been three years on a charge of larceny.

John Brown a Window-Smasher. John Brown, living at No. 203 North Seventh street, Williamsburg, was arrested yesterday morning by Policeman O'Connor, of the Greenpoint Avenue Station. He had broken a window in the store of Miller Goldstein, No. 6 avenue. The policeman heard the glass, and seeing Brown running through the window, he ran after him. Street Police Court Justice Laiman sentenced Brown to a charge of attacking.

WURSTER SNUBS THEM.

Mayor Will Not Confer with Law Enforcement Society—Raines Law Warrants.

The Brooklyn Law Enforcement Society has arranged for a jubilee meeting to be held at the Hanson Place Baptist Church to-morrow night in celebration of the general closing of saloons last Sunday.

A letter signed by the president and secretary of the society was received by Mayor Wurster yesterday. It called his attention to the promise made to some clergymen who called on him last February, that the saloons within 200 feet of churches would be closed.

The following reply was sent to the president: "I am directed by His Honor, the Mayor, to say in reply to your communication, that it will be impossible for him to arrange a conference with you at the time you wish, owing to his continued illness, which will prevent his being in the office in the next few days."

The subject you desire to present to him is in the hands of the Police Commissioner and his counsel, and they are proceeding as rapidly as possible with it, without taking illegal steps. W. M. Palmer, Secretary to the Mayor, Wash, in the Adams Street Police Court yesterday, at the request of the District Attorney, issued warrants for the arrest of the following persons, accused of violation of the Raines law last Sunday:

Tacob Wedel, 426 South Fifth street; H. P. Whelan, 143 North Fifth street; Charles Devine, 238 North Seventh street; Thomas Conway, 230 North Eleventh street; John Kelly, 477 Fifth avenue; H. C. Puckhaber, Kings highway and Flatbush avenue; John Gallagher, 229 Franklin avenue; Walter D. Gilman, 1256 Bedford avenue; Cornelius Duffy, 316 Park avenue; James Dougherty, 207 Hudson avenue; John Duffy, 233 41st street.

The warrants will be served to-day and the accused men arraigned Monday.

There was a discussion of the liquor question yesterday at the meeting of the League of Unitarian Women in Unity Church, Irving place, where Robert Garne, of Newburg, advocated the opening of attractive coffee houses, in which workmen might meet, rather than legislative action with regard to saloons.

A Thousand Would-Be Policemen. One thousand young men have applied for appointments as policemen, and they will undergo an examination next Monday.

Twenty of them will be needed for the mounted squad, which is to be increased to fifty men. About twenty-five will be required for the Twenty-third Sub-Prelect, which is to be organized for Parkville, Inland Terrace and Kensington.

Flushing Merchants Robbed by Three Young Men—Two Under Arrest.

Flushing, L. I., April 3.—Allice Johnson and Agnes Graham, two eighteen-year-old negro girls, were arrested as they got off the train coming from New York at 10.30 o'clock last night by Constable Allen on a charge of shoplifting, made by Abram Schifren, a dealer in ready made clothing.

Several Flushing merchants have been robbed recently, and Allen in his efforts to capture the thieves, searched the room occupied by the two girls on Hamilton street, and found there over $100 worth of property, all of which was afterward identified. Neighbors said that the girls, with another, Della Fox, also colored, had been taking away bundles from rooms every morning. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of the Fox girl.

Agnes Graham acknowledges having taken some of the goods. Justice Smith locked the girls up and sent officers Allen and Slaven to arrest Della Fox.

SERGEANT TOOLE'S BRAVERY.

He Was Dragged Half a Block in Stopping a Runaway Horse.

Sergeant Toole, of the Adams Street Station, stopped a runaway yesterday on Fulton street, near De Kalb avenue. The horse, which was pulling an express wagon, ran down Fulton street, scattering a crowd of shoppers who were crossing the street.

Toole seized the horse by the mane, but was dragged half a block before the animal stopped running.

Told Captain Rhodes to Sit Down. Police Captain Rhodes, of the Seventh Precinct, and Justice Lalumbe, had an argument yesterday in the Ewen Street Police Court, Brooklyn, over the case of Thomas O'Rourke, a pawnbroker's clerk, charged with larceny. The captain was surprised to learn that the prisoner was dismissed a week ago on the statement of his lawyer that the complainant did not want to press the charge. He was indicted, and criticized Justice Van Wart, who had disposed of the case. Justice Lalumbe sharply ordered the captain to sit down. The blood rushed into the officer's cheeks as he turned and walked out of the court room.

Browning to Go to West Point. William S. Browning, son of Dr. William W. Browning, of No. 155 Reid avenue, has been appointed a cadet at West Point. He is a former pupil of George M. DeWitt, of East New York. Young McDewitt, who originally captured the prize, failed of appointment because of a defect in his eyesight. Mr. Browning was his principal competitor at the examination ordered by Congress last Summer. He is nineteen years old, a graduate from the high school, and a football player.

FIRE THREATENED BABIES.

Flames Caused a Panic in the Nursery Attached to Flat-bush Hospital.

Prompt Work of Firemen Saved the Flimsy Building That Shelters Two Hundred Little Ones.

NURSES LOST THEIR HEADS.

The Blaze, Which Was Quickly Extinguished, Caused by the Overturning of a Pot of Sulphur Used as a Fumigator.

A fire which for a time threatened the lives of 200 young children occurred at the nursery adjoining the Flatbush Hospital yesterday morning.

About 10 o'clock one of the employes filled a pot with sulphur and set it on fire for the purpose of fumigating the nursery, where a score of children were suffering from measles.

The vessel was upset and set fire to the floor. An alarm was sent in. In a few minutes the structure was filled with smoke. Several nurses lost their presence of mind and rushed about crying and screaming. The children who were old enough to move about without assistance hurried to the far end of the building. The firemen were there in a few minutes and quenched the flames, which, luckily, had not done much harm. Order was soon restored.

The nursery is one of the long row of county buildings which line Clarkson street from the Canarsie road to Troy avenue. It is a flimsy structure, unfit for any purpose except a storeroom. That it was not burned to the ground was due to the prompt alarm and the quick response of the firemen.

SAFFEN'S LITTLE PLAN

It Costs a Dime to Enable a Citizen to See Papers in the Kings County Clerk's Office.

Since Henry C. Saffen became County Clerk of Kings he has made some changes which show how Republican reform works in Brooklyn. Before he assumed control any reputable citizen had the right to go into the office and examine such papers as he was interested in.

The right, which was time-honored, has been abolished, and is twisted into a privilege for which ten cents is charged.

Lawyers and other whose duties take them to the County Clerk's office are indignant over the change. It is possible that the Bar Association may take some action in the matter.

Heretofore lawyers, newspaper men and Courtroom, willing clerks procured the documents on file in the County Clerk's office simply had to tell clerk what they wanted. Courteous, willing clerks procured the documents and placed them at the disposal of the applicants, without murmur or price. Now a man must apply to a clerk who looks tremendously important. He must give his name and address and other particulars, which are entered upon a receipt. The receipt is retained until the person who has had the use of a document returns it. Then he is required to pay 10 cents.

As the men who must use the office records are numerous, the fees amount to a considerable sum.

TROLLEY ON LONG ISLAND.

A New Line Will Connect Greenport, East Marion and Orient.

East Marion, L. I., April 3.—The residents of this section are pleased over the news of a proposed trolley line from Greenport to East Marion and Orient. The syndicate which proposes to construct the line has instructed Road Commissioner E. W. Taber, of Orient, to secure permits from the land owners along the route. The road will be about eight miles long and the cost is estimated to be about $150,000.

NASSAU TAKES HOLD.

The Atlantic Avenue Railroad system of ten lines will be controlled by the Nassau Electric Railroad Company, of Brooklyn, after 12 o'clock to-night. In anticipation of a ratification of lease and transfer to fifty men, the saloon keepers will transfer the necessary connections between the tracks of the two systems. For five cents one can go anywhere.

A VICTIM OF NEGLECT.

Pitiful Plight of a Baby Girl Found in a Squallid Williamsburg Garret.

Eight-year-old Isabella Koch, who was found in a squallid apartment in the attic at No. 365 Wythe avenue, Williamsburg, a week ago by Agent Sauer, of the Children's Society, was yesterday committed to the Eastern District Industrial Home on South Third street by Justice Goetting.

The child's father is now under arrest on a charge of neglecting her.

The little one's mother died seven years ago, leaving three children. Isabella was the youngest, and the other two were placed in an asylum, and were afterward adopted by some family. All trace of them has been lost by the father. Koch married again, but his second wife left him some time ago.

The condition of the child was brought to the notice of the Children's Society by the neighbors. The rooms where the child was found were without ventilation or light.

SAG HARBOR'S LICENSES.

Efforts Are Being Made to Drive Saloons Out of Southampton.

Sag Harbor, L. I., April 13.—At the election to be held on Tuesday, in this village, the question of licenses will be decided. The better element want to force out the saloons from the town of Southampton, in which part of Sag Harbor is situated. If the election goes against licenses in Sag Harbor the saloons, although not being allowed licenses would not be seriously inconvenienced.

The town of East Hampton is adjoining, and if it votes for licenses, which it is expected to do, the saloon keepers will transfer their places from one part of the village of Sag Harbor to the other, over the dividing line.

HE WAS A MAD MONKEY.

Young Texter Fed Him a Copy of the Raines Law and Roused His Ire.

Jocko Escaped from His Cage and Had Things His Own Way for a While.

WAS COAXED INTO CAPTIVITY.

Mrs. Texter Offered Him a Piece of Cake and He Descended from His Perch Among the Electric Light Wires.

A big monkey kicked up quite a rumpus yesterday in the Winter casino at Umes Park, Gravesend Beach.

William Texter is proprietor of Umes Park. He is also treasurer of the Seaside Liquor Dealers' Association. Ever since the Raines bill was introduced he has had a number of certified copies about his place. His son Eddie, yesterday, accompanied by his constant companion, a Great Dane dog, who was named Caesar, out of respect to an individual who was the Mayor Glendon of ancient Rome, thought it would be amusement to poke fun at Jocko, the monkey.

Armed with a copy of the Raines bill, and followed by Caesar, Master Texter approached Jocko's Queen Anne cage, which stands on the stage in the hall room of the Casino. Eddie poked the bill through the bars, and Jocko took it with all gravity. Jocko took the pamphlet, opened it, and proceeded to peruse its contents. After glancing over the first few paragraphs he became bored apparently, for he commenced to eat the book, page by page.

The monkey seemingly enjoyed the meal until he reached the Sunday morning edition. After chewing a few lines of this, he became convulsed with rage, and chattered and shook his head. He then jumped and dived into the cage and state of frenzy. Caesar was close to the cage and Jocko reached out and caught him by the tail. In the struggle which followed the cage was upset. With a whoop, Jocko sprang out, and fastened himself on Caesar's back, proceeded to make his mark in the dog's skin with his teeth.

Caesar could not shake off the monkey, and when Eddie went to the rescue Jocko jumped upon his head and proceeded to pull his hair. Eddie howled and Mr. Texter and the bartender ran in from the bar room to see what the matter was. Jocko roused Mr. Texter's interference by biting him on the thumb. Then he jumped to the wall and climbed up the electric light wires to the chandelier.

Many efforts were made to catch Jocko and return him to his cage, but he refused to be caught. A doctor dressed Mr. Texter's injured thumb and the monkey, however, was resumed. In the midst of it Mrs. Texter appeared upon the scene.

"You cannot offer free lunch to any one," she said, "I will bring him down." She said, and went for a piece of cake.

Jocko, at the sight of the cake, smiled and commenced to descend. He was, at most within reach of the morsel when Mr. Texter interfered.

"You cannot offer free lunch to any one," he gasped. "It is against the law."

Jocko looked cross, but continued to follow Mrs. Texter until he was finally secured in his cage. He had another burst of passion because the cake was not given to him, and from that time spite he ate the final pages of the Raines bill.
