

TEN DOLLARS A SIDE AND A LIFE.

Two Young Men Donned the Gloves, and in Thirty Minutes One Was Dead.

The Principals Were Friends and Fought in a Spirit of Good-Natured Rivalry.

EIGHT PEOPLE ARE UNDER ARREST.

The Vanquished Pugilist Regained Consciousness Momentarily, Then Sank into a Comatose Condition and Never Recovered.

Haverhill, Mass., April 5.—Arthur Bradley, of this city, found a bout at Lawrence last evening with Richard Ingram, also of this city. As a result, Ingram's head body now lies at the home of his brother on Dudley street, and Bradley and four others are now in the police station in this city, and three more are in the Lawrence Police Station, on the charge of aiding and abetting in manslaughter.

Ingram and Bradley were friends and fellow-employees at Clark's factory, as well as fellow-men at Bradley's business house, on River street. Both are Scotch and proud of their prowess in athletics. According to Bradley's story, for some time past Ingram had been taunting him upon his superiority with the boxing gloves. Finally the taunts became too frequent, and with the help of some friends, a friendly bout was arranged, just to test the respective powers of the men.

Preparations were completed for the fight last evening for stakes of $10 a side, the meeting to take place at a stable in South Lawrence, where they would be safe from all annoyance. Both men were in good condition. The contest occurred, it is alleged, in the barn of David Blair, on South Broadway, and it was only by chance that the affair was discovered. This chance, however, was used to good advantage, and through the efficient work of Captain Ryan the mystery was solved and the men were arrested for a more serious crime than was at first suspected.

The men entered the ring stripped and lost no time in getting at each other. If the stories of the spectators are to be believed, light gloves were used and the fight was fierce from the start. Ingram, according to the story, was seconded by Archibald McIntosh, and Bradley by a man named Donovan. The fight lasted thirty minutes, when Bradley is said to have given his opponent a chance blow under the right jaw and laid him out on the floor in a heap. Ingram was lying at full length when time was counted, and the fight was awarded to Bradley. Those present rushed to the aid of Ingram and attempted to remove his gloves. He recovered consciousness for a minute and said:

"Hold on; what are you doing that for?" These were the last words he spoke, and almost immediately he relapsed into unconsciousness. He was lifted into a wagon as quickly as possible without calling on a Lawrence physician, wrapped in blankets and brought to this city, remaining unconscious all the way. He died soon after reaching the house of his brother, William C. Ingram.

FOR BETTER TENEMENTS.

Central Labor Union Will Co-operate in the Movement to Secure Modern Homes for the Poor.

The Central Labor Union had a rush of business yesterday which kept the delegates in session until long after the usual hour. The secretary was instructed to send a protest against the Tenement House bill now pending in the Legislature to the Senate and the Assembly, and to the Committees on the Affairs of Cities of both houses. Professor E. R. L. Gould, of the Johns Hopkins University, spoke at length on the discomforts of tenement house life and asked the co-operation of the union in a plan for the erection of model tenements. A committee of five was appointed to co-operate with Professor Gould. Delegates Meisel, of the Bartenders' Union, reported that the Baines bill already introduced in the Assembly, and that "half of our members are out of work now, and the waiters are being hit in the same way," he said.

BURNED HOUSES AS HE RAN.

Antics of an Incendiary, Who Nearly Caused a Town's Destruction.

New Britain, Conn., April 5.—A fire, supposed to be of incendiary origin, broke out in the barn of William Riley, of Berlin, about five miles from here, this noon. A majority of the people were in attendance at divine services at the neighboring churches, but quickly flocked to the scene of the fire. The flames soon spread to adjoining buildings, and in less than ten minutes the house and barn of John Webber, which stood next in the row of buildings, were ablaze.

WHAT WE MAY DO FOR CUBA.

The granting of belligerency rights, which will pass the House to-day— Will give Cuba the status of a nation. Will place her on an equal footing with Spain so far as buying war supplies in this country are concerned. Will give her a flag, bearing which a ship entering any of our ports will be entitled to all the privileges of any foreign vessel, and not be treated as a pirate, as would now be the case. Will make it not unlawful for men to go and join the struggling patriots openly. Will enable her to negotiate loans openly.

READY TO VOTE ON CUBA.

Senate Resolutions Expected to Pass the House To-day, Though There Will Be Opposition.

Washington, April 5.—A vote upon the adoption of the Senate resolutions relating to Cuba will be the first item of business in the House this week, under the agreement entered into Saturday, by which the sessions of that day were given to debate on the subject.

The vote is to be taken immediately after the reading of the journal to-morrow. There is no reason to doubt that the resolutions will be agreed to by a large majority, although the debate of Friday developed an unsuspected amount of opposition to any declaration on the subject by Congress, and the antagonists of the conference report assert that the vote against their adoption will be largely increased over the vote cast against the resolutions originally passed by the House.

The Cuban matter out of the way, Mr. Hooper, chairman of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, will make an effort to-morrow, being suspension day under the rules, to take up the Appropriation bill reported by him on Friday, and proceed with its consideration under suspension of the rules.

Appropriation bills will take precedence in the Senate this week, the Post Office bill now under consideration possibly requiring two more days before it can be passed; the Indian and Naval bills to follow.

Mr. Morgan has given notice that he will take the floor on Tuesday to address the Senate in favor of his Pacific Railroad bill, which gives the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia jurisdiction in all foreclosure suits and similar proceedings that may be brought in connection with these roads. Mr. Peffer will endeavor to press his motion for an investigation of the bond sales, but will not stand in the way of Appropriation bills.

GREYHOUND NOW KILLED.

He Was the Pride of the United States Hotel, and Acted Like Mad When Playing With Children.

Nero, the pride of the guests of the United States Hotel, went mad, it is supposed, and was shot yesterday by Police-man Slattery, of the Old Slip Station. Nero was only a dog, but he was an exceedingly well-bred Italian greyhound, whose parents belong to the celebrated Westchester Kennel.

"Overtraining did it," said his owner, Geo. Harding, son of the proprietor of the hotel, last night. "He was too ambitious." Nero was eight months old and certainly a beautiful animal. At noon yesterday he was allowed to go out of the hotel to play ball. On the higher of the sphere he bounded the higher Nero leaped. His master, and everybody who looked on, laughed at the gambols of Nero until he struck a wall, and with a wild yelp, dashed down Water street toward South Ferry. He turned eastward at Wall and ran to Front street, coming back toward Brooklyn Bridge.

Fulton and South streets Nero was recognized by three policemen, who called to him. The animal sprang over their heads and made for the hotel, a group of children in East street were right in his way, but Nero sprang over their heads with the utmost ease. Fred and Geo. Harding tried to jump over the dog again close to the hotel, but he ran all the harder, only varying his direction to take every opportunity to jump over anybody he saw. Nero made the same circuit four times. He finally began to snap at everybody who came in his way.

Fulton street was crowded with people, and many were terrified at the dog's antics. He finally ran into the doorway of the hotel, where he was seized and a bucket of cold water thrown on him. A hit followed, and Mr. Harding's reluctant wife, who was in the room, was seized and thrown into the gutter at Water and Fulton streets, wrapped in a blanket removed from a bed in the hotel.

Relief for All.

Agent Agnew, of the Gerry Society, took four young children to Jefferson Market Court yesterday and explained to Magistrate Crane that he found them under very pitiful circumstances.

The children were Andrew, Rose, Charles and Sara Smith, respectively aged ten, eight, six years and twenty months. The father and mother, Andrew and Rose Smith, were also in court, together with Andrew Smith, the grandfather of the children.

Agent Agnew called at the house No. 21 Third street, Saturday night. He found the building one which was devoted to business purposes. The grandfather occupies the third floor with a small printing establishment. Above this floor, in a garret, in a room destitute of beds, carpets or furniture, he found the four children alone, all but the eldest entirely naked. They were huddled about a stove. So close were they to the fire that Andrew and Charles had been severely burned.

Neither of the parents were on the premises, and the children were locked in the room. The agent had to burst in the door. A patrol wagon was called, and after the children were wrapped in horse blankets they were taken to the Gerry Society rooms, where they were clothed and given beds.

Agnew explained to Magistrate Crane that the mother was a hard drinker, and that the father had not had steady work for some months. The family were being cared for by the grandfather.

Magistrate Crane delivered the children into the custody of the Gerry Society, and Andrew and Charles were taken to St. Vincent's Hospital for treatment for their burns.

Still other hungry and suffering children found friends yesterday to save them from destitution.

Mary Hayes and Maria Moran, the former with two children and the latter with one, were arraigned in Yorkville Court yesterday. The women had been dispossessed from No. 424 West Fifty-sixth street on Saturday. Their furniture was put on the sidewalk. Later Mrs. Hayes's husband, Thomas, who had worked on Saturday and earned $2, returned. On seeing the condition of affairs he at once invested the money in liquor.

All hands then returned to the vacant rooms, where they were found at half-past 8 the same night by Policeman Tarbell, of the West Forty-seventh Street Station. He arrested them.

The babies made such a noise in the pen that the police called a Doorman Barnes, investigated the cause. He found the little ones suffering from hunger. He sent to the janitress, who supplied them with food. When the case was called, the little ones were devouring cookies. One of Mrs. Hayes's babies was naked, save for a bit of rags, wrapped around its body. The women were committed to the workhouse and Hayes was fined $3.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITURE Summer Decorations.

Many imagine country houses hard to decorate artistically.

Those are the very people we like to meet. We have the knack of discovering for them that their own dwellings have good and strong decorative possibilities. If the rooms are sunny and warm, if they appear small, if their tones are sullied by a strong reflected light from green trees or a building—no matter what the faults—we make them cool, airy, and charming in color. How?

Let us show you. The expense will not be a whit more than you wish.
