

DEATH OF MRS. APPEL AFTER SEVEN HOURS OF STRUGGLE.

Mme. Augusta Berg Was Nearly Dead from an Enormous Overdose of Morphine When a Physician Tried to Save Her.

SHE MAY HAVE COMMITTED SUICIDE.

After Fifteen Hours of Artificial Respiration She Began to Breathe Naturally, Only to Die Before the Day Ended.

Mme. Augusta Berg, a member of a distinguished family in Stockholm, Sweden, died in room No. 445 of the Metropolitan Hotel, half past ten o'clock on Monday night from morphine poisoning. The indications point strongly to suicide.

Mme. Berg came to the hotel on September 16 last. She was a crayon artist and appeared to be well supplied with money. She was something over forty years of age, of commanding appearance, and her manners clearly indicated that she had been reared among refined surroundings.

She had a number of acquaintances who called on her frequently. Among these were Lieutenant Walter Sears and Dr. Craig, of the United States dynamite cruiser Vesuvius; Dr. and Mrs. W. N. Guernsey, of No. 27 West Fifty-second street, and Mr. Christopher Raven, the Swedish Consul.

She appeared to be in good health, although she was said to be suffering from insomnia. However, nothing unusual was noticed about her until Saturday evening last, when a bell boy reported to Mr. Hildebrand, the proprietor of the hotel, that "the lady" was sick.

Hildebrand summoned Dr. William E. Forest, of No. 39 Washington square, the physician of the hotel, who arrived at eleven o'clock on Saturday night.

"When I called upon Mme. Berg," said Dr. Forest, yesterday, "I found that she had been suffering from a severe cold, and also that she had been taking morphine. She had not, however, taken enough of the drug to harm her, and as she laughed and joked and appeared to be in good spirits I merely cautioned her not to take any more morphine. I also advised the chambermaids to watch her closely and report unusual symptoms to me at once."

FOUND HER BLACK IN THE FACE. At ten o'clock Sunday morning Dr. Forest was again summoned. This time he found the woman black in the face and unconscious. A large empty bottle which had been lying on the table in the room, was found in the room. She had evidently taken a very large dose of the drug, possibly with suicidal intent.

The patient was once set to work to restore consciousness. Mme. Berg was not breathing and the body was cold, although there was a slight perceptible motion of the heart. Several syringes of oxygen were procured and artificial respiration was resorted to.

The patient was rubbed and beaten incessantly. Hypnotic injections of brandy were given and hour after hour was this treatment kept up, until on Monday morning at one o'clock, fifteen hours after the beginning of the treatment, she began to breathe naturally.

"It was the longest case of suspended animation I have ever seen," said Dr. Forest, "and I am glad to say she was practically dead during all this time. She never regained consciousness, however, though I continued the treatment, and on Monday night she ceased to breathe."

The body was removed to an undertaking establishment. The Swedish Consul, who was at once notified, said that he would be in charge of the body and attend to the funeral arrangements. He had also, he said, cabled to Mme. Berg's relatives in Stockholm.

NO CASE FOR SUICIDE. As far as could be learned yesterday Mme. Berg had no reason whatever to have committed suicide, and she wrote this letter to Consul Raven on Saturday night:

"DEAR MR. RAVEN—I am very sick to-night and am going to die. If anything should happen to me I request you to write this letter to Consul Raven on Saturday night.

"Mme. Berg," said Mr. Raven yesterday, "came of distinguished Swedish family. Her father was a wealthy merchant of Stockholm, and one of her brothers, Mr. G. Sternhosen, is at present the General Superintendent of all government railroads in Sweden. She has another brother, there also well to do.

"Her husband, who died several years ago, was a wealthy merchant of Copenhagen, Denmark, whom she has a daughter now living. She was a woman of finished education and of abundant means. She was disappointed last week in not receiving some expected remittance from home. But the fact would hardly have led her to commit suicide.

FATHER YODYZSUS WELLS RESIGN AND GO WEST.

Brooklyn's Erving Priest Is About to Abandon the Pulpit and Study Medicine.

HE WILL MARRY HIS SERVANT.

After an Affecting Scene in Court and an Appeal to the Police There Was a Reconciliation.

The story which Maggie Flakowski, the servant in the house of Father Matthias Yodyszus, of Brooklyn, told Justice Goetting in the Lee Avenue Police Court, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, after her acquittal of the charge of grand larceny which the priest had made against her, will likely wind up the priest's career in Brooklyn.

The girl was an object of much sympathy when she was arraigned in court, and her eyes were red from weeping and she could hardly speak. "Oh, I am innocent! I am innocent!" she exclaimed in the Lithuanian language, which an interpreter translated to the Justice.

Father Yodyszus did not appear to sustain his charge after the girl's discharge, she was taken into Justice Goetting's private room, where she told a remarkable story. She came from the province of Lithuania, in Poland, four months ago at the request of the priest. He made her his housekeeper. He threatened her with harm if she ever told of their relations, and she was in daily fear of his life.

THE PRIEST IN DISCRETION. Referring to the assault upon him two weeks ago by some of his parishioners, she said he was attacked in Greenpoint and came home in a wretched condition at four o'clock on Sunday.

For two days he was locked in his room, and visitors who came there were told that he had gone to Boston. He placed raw meat on his face in order that the wounds might heal. While he lay in bed one afternoon Bishop Loughlin and Father Carroll, who had been apprised of his condition, came to his house, but were refused admission because of his alleged absence in Boston.
