

Cardinal Dying While Conclave Is in Deadlock

Herrero y Espinosa Receives the Last Communion During Struggle of Rampolla and Serafino Vannutelli for St. Peter's Chair.

GOOD CHANCE STILL FOR NEUTRAL MAN

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.]
The Herald's European edition publishes the following from the struggle between Cardinal Rampolla and Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli, as struggling desperately for the mastery. Under these conditions, no candidate can succeed in obtaining the two-thirds vote necessary for election, as no agreement was evidently reached in the long period of Pope Leo's illness, death and funeral.

It is possible that the conflict in the Conclave will continue for several days yet until the Cardinals, fatigued by the duration of the Conclave, will give their votes for some neutral Cardinal. It is in this manner that the opposing parties will begin to break up. However, no absolutely trustworthy news of what is passing within the Conclave is to be had in the Vatican world.

After the first "suffragium" this morning it was rumored that Cardinal Sampaio was elected, while the smoke in the Conclave stated that Cardinal Vannutelli had been chosen. In the afternoon a similar rumor was in circulation regarding Cardinal Rampolla. The struggle, however, seems to be restricted to the two latter.

The sole fact that is known with certainty is that Cardinal Herrera y Espinosa is dying. Bulletins of his condition are sent daily to Señor J. G. de Azuara, the Spanish Ambassador. His Excellency reports that the Cardinal's condition is almost hopeless. His Emancipation is suffering from an attack of angina pectoris. He is eighty-three years old.

Cardinals Creton, Langéneux, Couille and Mocceni are also ill. They were ill when they entered the Conclave.

CARDINAL SARTEO SEES NO CHANCE

Said to Have Remarked That He Purchased a Return Ticket to Venice.

Rome, Monday.—After three full days of deliberation, during which six ballots had been taken, the members of the Conclave still remain shut up in the Vatican, not having selected a successor to Leo XIII. The futurity of both the ballots taken to-day was evidenced by the smoke which arose from the Sistine Chapel. The smoke gave the news of the morning balloting at sixteen minutes past eleven o'clock. The mite signal at twenty-five minutes past six this evening was watched by another large crowd, which is estimated numbers about thirty thousand.

Great disappointment was manifested when the little puff of smoke appeared there were loud cries, not only of disappointment, but even of derision. Rome is becoming extremely impatient over the delay in the selection of the new Pope, concerning which there appears to be no definite explanation owing to the rigid secrecy with which the proceedings within the Conclave are being conducted.

Practically the only news which came to-day from the Sistine Chapel was that of the extremely grave illness of Cardinal Herrera. Other aged Cardinals are also suffering from their prolonged seclusion and the intense heat. Among the ambassadors and ecclesiastics there exists a general opinion that if only for the sake of relieving the agonizing situation may be sacrificed within the Conclave to arrive at a speedy conclusion.

ANTI-VATICAN MOVEMENT

Rome, Monday.—The republican party, which is very small in Italy, is trying to organize a demonstration against the Vatican on the day of the election of the new Pope, hoping to make a show of strength by gaining the adherence of all the members of the party. Premier Zanardelli has decided to prevent any such demonstration on the ground that it is against public order.

THREE INFLUENCES IN THE CONCLAVE

They Are Reflected in the Leading "Papabili," Rampolla, Vannutelli and Gotti.

[From the European Edition of the Herald.]
Rome.—The various influences in the Conclave may be designated as, on one side, the "irreconcilables," on the other, the so-called "liberals," and in the middle, between the two, the "party of reconciliation." It may be definitely stated that the prospects of the "irreconcilables" are somewhat gloomy. Cardinal Rampolla, their leader and chief representative, has apparently seen that the majority of the Cardinals, though he created them, are not favorable to him.

But there are many surprises possible in the Conclave, though the Cardinal Rampolla may under certain circumstances, be crowned with success. Cardinal Rampolla will therefore probably throw the weight of his great influence on the scale on behalf of one or other of his friends, such as Cardinal Ferrero, who is his friend and ally, or an out-and-out friend of France. Naturally, there stand behind him not only the Order of the Jesuits, but also the dominant anti-clerical French government.

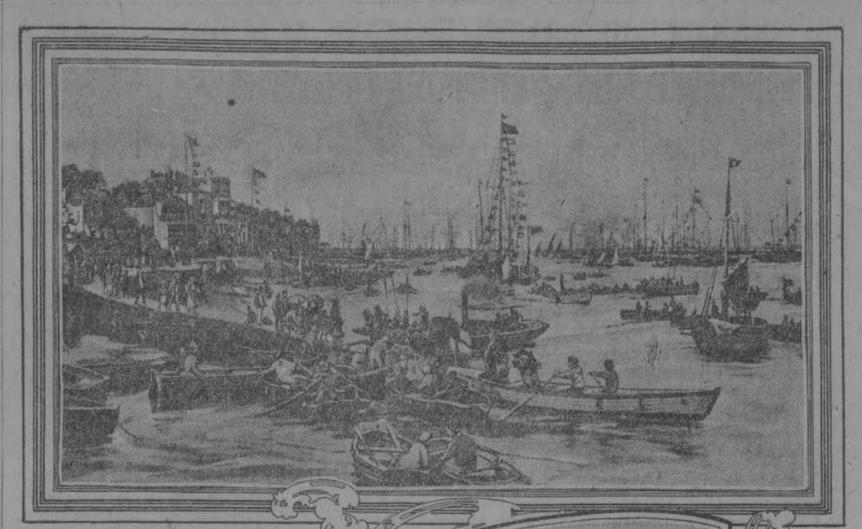

THE LIBERAL CANDIDATES

The "liberal" tendency in the Sacred College (which is syncretic) of the most opposition to the Rampolla régime has its chief representative in Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli, in the octogenarian Cardinal Capelatro, in the former confessor of Queen Margherita, and in the representative of Italian patriotism in the Sacred College, as far as it can be combined with the views of the "liberals" on the subject of the reconciliation of Church and State as well as the prospect of a new Pope, who is a mystic, inclined but noble nature, a man of high intellect and a man of great force of character. He has, however, a penetrating glance and is a man of great learning.

Cardinal Agliardi, the former Nuncio in Munich and Vienna, is a man of the world, imbued with the modern spirit, and an out-and-out friend of Germany. Without at the same time, offending any other country, the born candidate of toleration and impartiality.

These are the chief personages who would have to be considered, if it were not that circumstances or the fact called in place a "homo novus," who nobody knows, or the name of St. Peter's, which often happens in conclaves, that the old proverb proves to be right, "Chi entra Pontefice conclude in pace." (He who enters Pontifex concludes in peace.) (He who enters Pontifex concludes in peace.)

KAISER'S AMERICAN BUILT YACHT WINS IN OPENING RACES OF COWES WEEK

ROYAL YACHT SQUADRON DURING COWES WEEK.

Royal Squadron's Yachting Week Opens Brilliantly with Large Fleet.

Cowes, Monday.—The Solent yachting season, which opened this morning with matches under the auspices of the Royal London Yacht Club, promises to be more than usually interesting. The presence of King Edward and Queen Alexandra guarantees the social success of the week, while the entries for the races will be up to the average. The fleet of pleasure yachts at Cowes includes many large steamers, but Mr. H. J. Drexel's Margaria, chartered by Mr. J. H. Smith, dwarfs all with the exception of the royal yacht Victoria and Albert. The other American yachts are Mr. Allison V. Armour's Utowana, and Mrs. Robert Goelt's Nahma, while among the racers the German Emperor's Meteor and Herr Walden's Navaho represent American yacht building yards.

A smart westerly wind was blowing when the fleet of cruisers started on a thirty mile course for a cup worth sixty guineas, presented by the Vice Commodore, including Captain and Mrs. J. H. Smith, the Earl of Devonshire, and the Earl of Sandwich. The race for the Rear Commodore's Cup, value 10 guineas, brought out three schooners. The German Emperor's Meteor led over the line, with Mr. Quantin's Cleo on her weather beam and Mr. Spivey's Adela close astern. In the center of the first round the Cleo carried away her bowsprit, leaving Mr. Eckford's Namara, Mr. Donaldson's Bona and Mr. Kerr's Valador to compete for the prize. The Valador won.

The King landed at Cowes this morning and visited the Duke of Manchester, who, with her sister, Miss Emily Yznaga, and the Honorable and Mrs. George Koppel, is among the guests of M. Poklewski at Egypt House.

"TO HIS MAJESTY THE KING OF PORTUGAL, LISBON, August 1, 1903. 'I most cordially reciprocate Your Majesty's greeting, and in a friendly and friendly manner which prompts it a renewed proof of the good will which unites the two countries and peoples.'"

MINISTERS ON FLAGSHIP

Admiral Cotton Entertains High Dignitaries of Portugal.

Lisbon, Monday.—President Roosevelt's cablegram in reply to the message from King Charles, which is published to-day by the Portuguese newspapers, has created an excellent impression here.

Shortly after noon to-day the members of the Portuguese Cabinet and the military and civil authorities, the former in dress uniform and the latter in frock coats, preceded in naval barges across the harbor to the Brooklyn, Admiral Cotton's flagship, on board of which an exquisite menu had been prepared for the luncheon to be given in their honor.

Rear Admiral Cotton and United States Minister Bryan, with the chief officers of the American squadron, received the guests at the gangway. The band of the Brooklyn played Portuguese airs and the American war ships flew the Portuguese flag at the mainmast.

Among the guests were the Ministers of War, Justice, Finance and Public Works; Dr. Cunha, the Civil Governor of Lisbon; Admiral Castilho, Director of the Naval School; Admiral Pereira do Amaral, in spirit of the Arsenal; Captain Borja, chief of the naval General Staff, and General Craveiro Lopes, commander of the Army of the Algarves. The President is present, having been called by his physical and mental condition was such that further examination might endanger his life.

Count Hodevary started for Lisbon to-night to see Emperor Francis Joseph and report upon the situation. It is rumored that he will, however, decline to do so, but his friends aver that he is determined not to yield or resign. The preponderance of opinion, however, seems to be in favor of his retaining office, but the struggle between the parties will continue with increased violence.

MRS. JEAN LAWRENCE, "CALAMITY JANE" ACTRESS, IS DEAD

Stage Favorite of Last Century Ex-Held Her Own in the Wildest Life of the Western Plains.

WELL KNOWN IN NEW YORK

Member of a Theatrical Family, She Left Profession for a Time, but Returned After Death of Her Husband.

BOSTON, Mass., Monday.—Mrs. Jean Margaret Davenport Lander, widow of General Frederick W. Lander, of Lynn, known as an actress for two score years in this country and in Europe, died Sunday evening of cancer, at her summer home in Lynn. She was seventy-four years old. The body will be taken to Washington, D. C., her late home, for burial.

Mrs. Lander was the daughter of Thomas Donald, a Scotchman, who became a theatrical manager. When only eight years old she began acting in the theatre at Richmond. She first visited the United States in 1838, but returned to Europe in 1842 for travel and study.

Some of Mrs. Lander's earliest successes in London were won at the Olympic Theatre, "The Countess" and "The Hunchback." She again visited the United States in 1849, being engaged at the Astor Place Opera House. She was married in 1860 to General Frederick William Lander in San Francisco, and when her husband died in 1882 she devoted herself for a time to hospital work.

Mrs. Lander reappeared on the stage in 1885, acting in Niblo's Garden, this city, in a play of her own translation, called "The Girl of the Year." Her successes were Peg Woffington, Adrienne Lecocq, Medea and Mary Stuart. She was associated with many of the greatest players of her time.

RUSSIAN RIOTS AND FAMINE.

Many Cossacks Reported to Have Been Killed by Mobs Along Baku-Tiflis Railway.

Noted Woman Dressed as a Man, and Could Not Stand "Civilization."

Chicago, Ill., Monday.—In the death of "Calamity Jane," in Terry, S. D., there has passed one of the most picturesque and daring characters that ever roamed the Western plains. The whole story of the strange woman never has been told, and now that she is dead the curtain of mystery will probably never be lifted from certain chapters of her checkered life.

Mrs. Jane Burck ("Calamity Jane") was born in Princeton, Mo., in 1823, and was quite young when with her father to the gold fields of Montana, where she became known to the rougher kind of life. She was the wildest of horses and challenged the dangers of the most desperate kind, to be second nature with her. In her dashes over the plains she wore the buckskin clothing of a man, with revolvers and cartridges at her belt, and in a few years seemed to forget entirely that she was born a woman. She was fearless, and took care of herself in every emergency.

When General Crook was engaged in a scout and rendered effective service, making long, arduous journeys and braving perils that would frighten a majority of men in these peaceful times.

"Calamity Jane" was married three times, her last husband being much younger than she. She was reported to have been married to a man named Yonago, and Mrs. Josephine Brock, of Buffalo, N. Y., who had become deeply interested in her, raised a funeral procession against war. Civilized life did not agree with the woman, however, and she soon dropped out of sight and nothing had been heard of her until the announcement of her death.

During a fierce campaign against the Indians in 1872 Mrs. Brock saved the life of Captain Egan and carried him from the battlefield. It was he who christened her "Calamity Jane, the Heroine of the Plains."

Mrs. Burck participated in all the fights and accompanied General Crook on his expeditions. She was a fine shot and made herself famous in 1870 by capturing Jack McCall, murderer of "Wild Bill" Hickok. At her request she was buried by the side of "Wild Bill."

She became a miner.

Trouble with the Indians having ended, "Calamity Jane" turned miner and came one of the typical kind. The kind described in a thousand accounts of her barroom battles, wild riding after robbers and grim lynchings. She made money, she spent it in drinking and gambling.

"Calamity Jane" found herself in falling health a few years ago, and her money gone. She would have been sent to the poor house if the generosity of Mrs. Brock had not provided her with a home.
