

POPE GOES AWAY TO THE SEASIDE. Pius X Faints While Celebrating Mass and Audiences Are Postponed.

HE HAS A WEAK HEART. Pontiff Takes a Long Nap After Swoon and Recovers His Normal Condition.

REQUIRES MORE FRESH AIR. His Venetian Physician Says Vatican Authorities Must Change Their System to Keep Pope Alive.

It is reported that Pius X, who has been already overcome by the unaccustomed strain of his pontifical duties. This morning he fainted while at mass. His collapse is considered to be due to heart weakness, aggravated by fatigue.

It constitutes the first victory of his entourage, which has insisted that he should take the change of life less strenuously. Even though he disappointed some persons, they urge him not to concede audiences to all comers and to render his presence less accessible.

Dr. Lapponi supported this view and recommended the Pope to take a complete rest. The doctor has ordered all audiences to be postponed, including that of Cardinal Loggia and Sir Thomas Edmondson, the representative of the Italian parliamentary party, who were to be received this morning.

The Pope, however, cannot understand the necessity of sparing himself, and said to Dr. Lapponi: "I am stronger than Pope Leo. Why should not I do what he did?"

POPE LEO'S CONSTITUTION. It was explained to him that Leo XIII, when elected, began by taking a few days' rest, and then gradually resumed his duties. Moreover, Pope Leo's constitution did not differ from that of Pius X, who was an ordinarily healthy man.

The pontifical duties have had such an effect upon Pope Pius X, that he has been unable to sleep for whole nights, while numerous receptions yesterday made matters worse.

His Holiness also was very much agitated last night, still he insisted upon adding this morning to his usual duties. The Venetians who had journeyed to Rome purposely to attend the coronation, they numbered about 100,000, and the air was vitiated, with the temperature above ninety degrees.

The Pope has already given the communion to two hundred persons when he began to feel ill. Those about him soon perceived that he was not well, and his nervousness and impatience, which showed itself in his attendant handed him his glasses. He pushed them aside and drew another pair from his pocket.

When another attendant tried to tie the ribbon of his robes behind his neck, the Pope told him to stop and did it himself, a most unusual occurrence with him.

CHAPLAIN CATCHES HIM. Pope Pius X, wearing a pale and pained face, finally throwing out his hands as though seeking support. He would have fallen had not Mr. Bressan, his private chaplain, been quick to catch him.

The consternation of the Venetians when they saw the Pope faint was great, and they rendered him aid by crowding around him. Mr. Bissetti, however, kept his presence of mind and ordered the Swiss Guard to clear a way for the Pope.

Among the Venetians present was Dr. Davanzola, who for nine years had been the Pope's attending physician at Venice, but had been called only once during that time, to treat a sore throat.

Dr. Davanzola, who is a Venetian, immediately assistance, while a messenger telephoned to Dr. Lapponi. The latter rushed to the Vatican, but did not arrive until after the Pope had been restored to consciousness.

When able to speak again the Pope said for a few days' water, which was given to him, and water was sprinkled on his face. His gown was opened at the neck, and he was fanned by a fan. He refused absolutely, however, to be carried to his apartment, saying he felt sufficiently strong to walk.

PALENESS OF THE PONTIFF. The way thither was cleared and he proceeded slowly, surrounded by his anxious entourage, his head bent almost on his shoulder and his eyes closed. He was scarcely distinguishable from his robes. The back of his gown still remained open.

It was a solemn moment when the Pontiff passed through the midst of the crowd of Venetians without having the strength to give them his benediction. Deep silence accompanied the impressiveness of the scene.

As he went out of sight through the Rialto bridge, the crowd checked at several of the pilgrims, and one could not refrain from crying out: "Take care of yourself, Your Holiness, for you are one who love you so much, as well as for your own sake."

The Pope, after taking some medicine to calm his heart and nerves, was able to lunch, afterward taking a sleep which lasted two hours and a half. On awakening he felt much better, but he was still weak. Although the Pope was much better this afternoon, Dr. Lapponi, who visited him at his apartment, thought that his Holiness must not leave his apartment and not to go into the garden of the Vatican, as he desired. He more properly insisted on a suspension of audiences.

MORE DOUBTS THAN POPE LEO. The Pontiff seems more delicate to the Doctors, who insist, although Pope Leo has insisted on transacting some current business such as the appointment of Alberto Sili, the son of the Dean of the Grooms, as his personal valet, the place occupied by Pio Cernaia under Pope Leo.

Dr. Davanzola, speaking about the Pope, said: "We wish our Pope not to succumb, the Vatican authorities must change their system. They must not oblige him to follow the custom of Pope Leo. The present Pontiff needs especially plenty of fresh air. He must not be shut up in a box in a crowded temple."

The Pope ardently wished to receive today the Austrian Ambassador, who was to present his credentials. But his Holiness was persuaded to renounce his intention not only in this case, but with regard to the audiences which were fixed for tomorrow.

The Pontiff retired this evening earlier than usual, saying that he felt recovered. His intimates, however, say that he is much changed since his election and seems to have grown years older. His sisters, at Venice, were much alarmed by the news of his indisposition and have decided to come to Rome to attend him.

SULTAN'S SON ON MISSION. He Informs Russian Ambassador of His Father's Distress Over the Consul's Murder.

SOVIA, Bulgaria, Tuesday.—The Premier and Minister of the Interior have proceeded to Dublitz with the intention of inspecting the Bulgarian posts along the Macedonian frontier. This is regarded as additional proof of the government's desire to maintain peace, as the Ministers are anxious to see whether more can be done to restrict the passage of insurgent bands into Macedonia.

It is now stated that Prince Ferdinand will not return to Sofia until after his fête day, August 15, and wishes to show he is not responsible for the present situation in Macedonia.

The insurgents have blown up a bridge sixty yards long near Gyvevill, on the Salonica-Uskub Railway.

Representatives of the Macedonian Revolutionary Committee announce that the revolution started in the vilayet of Uskub last Monday and in the vilayet of Adrianople on Monday. Telegraphic communication is interrupted. Adrianople forms the Seventh Revolutionary district, while the vilayet of Uskub is the eighth.

Representatives of the committee also announced that the Bulgarians had committed the atrocities committed by the Bulgarians, and accuse the Turks of attempting to prevent the Bulgarians from doing so.

General Tzoucheff, president of the Macedonian committee, has addressed an appeal to his adherents to assist the insurgents in Macedonia, even by revolutionary means. Prominent Macedonians here have formed a committee for the purpose of obtaining help for the victims of the insurrection.

Representatives of political parties in Bulgaria have joined the committee, and it is proposed to hold a public meeting to solicit contributions from all Bulgarians.

SULTAN'S SON ON MISSION. Expresses His Father's Regrets to Russian Ambassador in Constantinople.

Dr. Mandelstam, acting Russian Consul at Monastir, who was murdered on August 10, is reported to have been succeeded by M. Rostkowski.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Tuesday.—Some anxiety is felt for the safety of Dr. Mandelstam, the acting Russian Consul at Uskub, who was appointed to succeed the late M. Rostkowski. In spite of the first refusal of Governor Mandelstam to give him an escort, Dr. Mandelstam insisted upon proceeding to his new post.

After referring the matter to Himil Pasha, the Inspector General, he obtained an escort and started upon his own responsibility across the country for Monastir. He is being accompanied by a Russian officer.

The Sultan has offered an indemnity of $60,000 to the widow of the late M. Rostkowski, a member of the well-known Russian family of Muraviev, and M. Rostkowski was related to the late Prince Lobanoff, who was Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs; hence the anxiety of the Turkish authorities to have the matter satisfactorily settled with Russia.

It is rumored here that the Turkish troops in Macedonia have become so demoralized by their losses, and are deserting and selling their rifles to insurgents in order to obtain provisions.

STRIKERS TO PAY DAMAGES. English Appeal Court Supports Coal Owners Association's Case Against the Miners' Federation.

LONDON, Tuesday.—The Appeal Court today, by a majority of two to one, reversed the decision of Justice Bigham, who, on August 8, 1902, in a case where the Welsh Coal Owners' Association, sued the Miners' Federation for $500,000 damages for ordering stop days without consulting the owners, decided in favor of the defendants, on the ground that there was no malice in the action of the men because the latter believed that a reduction of the output would benefit both sides.

Lord Justice Romer and Stirling held that the Miners' Federation had not intended to deprive the coal owners of their property, and that the men were not to stop work and break their contracts. Therefore, it was the federation which was liable for the plaintiffs' damages. Lord Justice Williams approved Justice Bigham's decision. The question of damages was referred back to Justice Bigham.

SPEAKER STOPS LAST CHANGE. TWO FRIENDS BADLY INJURED. Lord Salisbury's Son Condemns Colonial Secretary's Way of Forwarding His Tariff Views.

LONDON, Tuesday.—When the Appropriation Bill was called up in the House of Commons to-day several attempts were made to discuss Mr. Chamberlain's fiscal proposals, this being the last possible chance before the prorogation of Parliament.

The speaker, however, ruled that the fiscal matter was irrelevant to the subject under consideration.

Incidentally, Lord Hugh Cecil delighted the opposition by caustically commenting on the dislike of criticism shown by the Premier, Mr. Arthur Balfour, and on Mr. Chamberlain's use of his official position to propagate statements which were largely conjectural.

He thought that a protest ought to be entered against the Premier's attitude in regard to the subject of the fiscal policy in the House of Commons.

WITNESSES SAW CRAWFORDS. Testimony Given in the Humbert Trial That the Brothers Really Existed.

PARIS, Tuesday.—The Humbert trial was resumed to-day. M. Parmentier, the lawyer who used to represent the Crawford brothers in their suits, was examined and said that Henry Crawford retained him in October, 1896, and told him that one of his (Crawford's) relations died at Nice, leaving the bulk of his fortune to Mme. Humbert, but a second will was discovered changing the disposition of the inheritance.

M. Parmentier gave details of the complicated litigation, maintaining his belief that the Crawford brothers actually existed, and that they were not impostors, as denying certain of M. Parmentier's statements.

Several witnesses were called, who testified that they had seen the Crawfords. Lecomte, a bailiff, testified that he had seen papers upon the two brothers, Henry and Robert, saying that they did not resemble Romain and Emile Daurignac, the latter believed to be the plaintiff in the Humbert family had impersonated the Crawfords.

CHANGE OF POLITICAL TREATY. Colombian Obstructionists Insist on Radical Modification of Agreement.

FRIENDS IN THE MINORITY. Only Seven Members of the Senate Favor Ratification, While Seventeen Oppose It.

BY MEXICAN CABLE TO THE HERALD. COLON, Colombia, via GALVESTON, TEXAS, Tuesday.—Mail advices just received from Bogota report the canal obstructionists in control of the situation and ratification of the treaty not probable unless some unexpected action takes place.

The treaty commission which is in charge of the matter so far seems unable to agree. Senators Perez y Soto and Eduardo y Gerlein, the principal agitators and obstructionists, demand radical modifications in the treaty and refuse to listen to the arguments of their colleagues who suggest a favorable report. So unyielding are the obstructionists that the Minister of Affairs asked the United States Minister, Mr. Beaufre, to inquire of Washington the effect of modifications and the United States government's probable action in case the enemies of the canal should insist on changing the substance of the treaty.

Mr. Beaufre replied that he had had no communication with his government, owing to interruption in the cable and telegraph service, and was therefore unable to comply with the request.

It is reported that only seven Senators favor the treaty in its present shape, and that if a vote should be taken seventeen nay votes would be recorded against ratification.

Nothing of special importance had been discussed in Congress up to July 26. A change in officers for the second session from July 20 to August 20 resulted as follows: President of the Senate, General Quintan Calderon; first vice president, General Pedro Nel Ospina; second vice president, Jose Rivas y Groot.

Mr. Beaufre's General Juan B. Valencia becomes president and Señors Francisco Arango and Oscar Teran, vice presidents.

The most probable candidates for the next term are Generals Rafael Reyes and Pedro Nel Ospina.

President Caro, one of the leaders of the opposition to the government, and an opponent of the canal, is expected to take the question into politics in the belief that such a move would eventually compel the Senate, when the treaty reaches it, to divide the lines of support or opposition to the government.

Senator Perez y Soto, who in June Senator Perez y Soto, Minister Herran for negotiating the treaty, has published a bitter arraignment of the Panama people who signed the treaty in his paper, the Constitucional.

Consul Guigay leaves to-morrow for New York on his vacation.

STAR IN "A SON OF REST" AND SARATOGA, ON WHICH HE TRIES THE NEW PLECE, SAYS PLAY AND PLAYER ARE QUITE AMUSING.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE HERALD.] SARATOGA, N. Y., Tuesday.—Nat M. Wills has been before the public as the vaudeville houses, and the result of his abandonment of the music halls and roof gardens for the more "legitimate" comedy stage has been awaited with interest in theatrical circles. He made his debut in the new line of work here to-night in a melange of farce and musical comedy by Messrs. Campbell and Marion, called "A Son of Rest," in which, as the title implies, he elaborates the "farce" character with which he has been familiar on the variety stage.

Apparently the crowded house that witnessed the play was very well pleased. The piece, which will open at the Fourteenth Street Theatre on Monday, is well suited to a wet weather audience. Mr. Wills proved a successful comedian in the star role. The "show girls" were attractive and the dancing excellent.

Little Colonel, who played the Cat and later as the Tough Boy, John Oliver was acceptable as Professor Fulton. Susanna Rocamora, as Mrs. Barron, was well received. Marie Allison, in the double role of Mrs. Sprucey and "Minnie from Minnesota," received considerable applause, while Kathryn Manning, as Marietta, made a personal hit.

Both of the Saratoga morning papers will spend the day on the subject, though his principal fault seems to be that it is too long. But they can prune it down on the way to the metropolis.

She applied to Mr. Shaw, the Western manager of the company, and for the piece with which to try her voice the aria from "Hercules" and several of the songs. The result was the offer of the leading role, which Mrs. Leathers will probably accept.

THEATRICAL JOTTINGS. Waited in with the fog that came on from the city, and several of the songs. The result was the offer of the leading role, which Mrs. Leathers will probably accept.
