At a meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday afternoon the Great Neck Golf Club, situated at Great Neck, L. I., was formally organized with the following Board of Governors—Edgar H. Cook, Charles E. Finlay, H. S. McKnight, Nathan Doyle and H. B. Martin.

There is a club house already on the property and nine holes more will be added to the nine holes now in playing condition. The club is one of the best located of the Metropolitan courses and the natural character of the ground make it an ideal golf link.

Why? Because it is equipped throughout with metal windows, metal doors and metal trim, manufactured by the U. S. Metal Products Co.

Occupants on the floors above and below were not disturbed, and absolutely no damage done except to the enamel finish.

In some of our recent advertising matter this clause appears:—"The construction of a building may be perfect, but so long as wood is used for doors, windows, partitions, &c., the danger will exist.

"Our new method of construction eliminates wood entirely for all interior trim. The windows, doors, partitions, wainscoting, &c., are made of indestructible metal—fireproof beyond question.

Every room is a unit in itself, and if a fire starts it is confined to the room in which it originated, and soon burns itself out without spreading to the rest of the building."

The truth of this is proved by yesterday's fire.
